GLAMOROUS CREATIONS...DISTINCTIVE ACCENTS...
IN MODERN JEWELRY

Glorified by The Greenleaf and Crosby flair for grace and style, rare gems and precious metals enhance the distinction of their wearers. In our large collection of unique designs you will find the whole gamut of craftsmanship...the fine, full flavor of a romantic period...the inventiveness of a Cellini...the modernity of a Picasso...the magnificent or the chastely simple...but, in all our offerings, the ultimate expression of exquisite taste.

...ABOUT YOUR HAIR

Here is a many-sided woman. Facets of her beauty flash as she turns. Admiring glances greet her on all sides, her hair the focal point of all eyes. But let's talk about YOU. Seen full-face you're a pleasing sight. But you're not a picture flat upon a wall. You have depth and dimension and critical eyes see you entire. So keep your hair entirely free of the marks of age. Keep your hair colorful, shining and youthlike . . . with Clairol, that modern hair color-bath. Insist on Clairol at your hairdresser's . . .

CAT CAY

WITH the winter season in this island resort swinging into the colorful peak, the care-free mood of the Tropics dominates the tempo of the scene. Cottagers and their house guests, visitors from the large fleet of yachts anchored in Pirates Harbor, and sojourners at the Manor, gathering for cocktails, dinner-dances and other social doings at the Cat Key Club, accent the gay momentum of the daily calendar.

Among recent affairs in the cottage colony was a cocktail assembly on Saturday given by Mrs. David Manson Weir, Steubenville, O., in her home Blue Horizon in honor of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sheldon, III, of Grosse Pointe, whose marriage was a social event last summer in St. Bartholemew's Church in New York. Mrs. Sheldon has been here a few weeks, while Mr. Sheldon joined this colony a few days ago. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Perkins, Mr. Willard Saulsbury, Wilmington, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Shaw II and Mr. Mrs. Frederic C. Church, Jr., Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Taylor, Watertown, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Durant, Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Lakin Baldrige, Ithaca, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lusk, New York and Miami Beach; Mr. Benedict Quinn, and Mr. Bans Hinrichs, New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Badenhause, Short Hills, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mudge, Manalapan, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pigott, Seattle; Mr. Wendell Anderson, Grosse Pointe; Mr. Ralph E. Jordan, Detroit, and Mr. Henry Strong, Falls Village, Conn.

Planing to Cat Cay from Sarasota, Fla., recently came Mr. Powell Crosley, Jr., aboard his amphibian with flight guests including Commander Eugene McDonald and Mrs. McDonald, Chicago and Miami Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Harvey, Chicago. They joined other colonists at the Manor. Mr. Crosley has taken the Strong cottage for the remainder of the season, while his new cottage is being built and made ready for occupancy.

Judge William F. Bleakley, New York, who is cruising tropic waters aboard his yacht Swanee, dropped anchor this week end in the cove at Pirates Harbor at this Cay. He and his cruise guest Mr. Frank D. Cooney, New York, joined in social affairs at the Cat Key Club. Judge Bleakley is president of the Westchester Republican Club.

NASSAU'S ONLY SEA BEACH HOTEL

"It Belongs"

A distinguished international clientele recognizes the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel as "Select," but it is much more than that . . . it is what the cosmopolitan guest indicates with the phrase "it belongs."

"A Tradition"

Those who appreciate the finer things in life have rewarded the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel with a rare distinction as the leader; "the finest of the great British hotels of the Caribbean." To retain so complimentary a distinction, year after year, makes it a tradition.

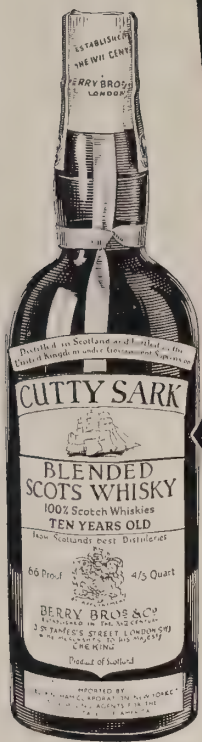

Nassau and the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel provide sports of every kind, smart social life, thoroughly modern facilities in a setting of unforgettable loveliness.

Ormond Beach

WITH social activities maintaining a mid-season aspect, the Hotel Ormond, renowned for its hospitality, is the gathering place of winter visitors. much entertaining is being done at the hotel by the guests and colonists. Mrs. Vernon Booth of New York entertained at a cocktail party in the Cocktail Lounge one evening, among her guests being Mr. and Mrs. John V. Redfield, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. House, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Wheeler, Mrs. Bradford Merrill, Mrs. James S. Holden, Mrs. John G. Owen and Miss Helen J. Hibbs. Mrs. George A. Ellis gave a dinner at the hotel on the occasion of the birthday anniversary of Mr. Louis R. Adams. In her party were Mr. and Mrs. George J. Adams, Jr., Mrs. Maud Burke, Miss Irene Adams, Miss Irene Cave, Miss Alice MacPhee, Miss Geneva Lavre, Mr. Wells Adams and the guest of honor, Mr. L. R. Adams.

The celebration of Washington's Birthday, with the traditional customs observed, was the inspiration for many parties. Gayety in high colorful mood marked the dinner dance, preceded by the ever-popular cocktail hour in the Lounge. Mrs. Bradford Merrill was hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. House, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Redfield, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. McKean, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Porter, Mrs. James S. Holden, Mrs. John G. Owen, Miss Helen J. Hibbs and Mr. Hugh M. G. Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Jones gave a party for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller, Mr. and Mrs. H. Joseph Dittrich, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thrasher, Mrs. C. D. Jones, Mrs. C. L. Steinmetz, Miss Mary Brutzman, Miss Betty Stambaugh and Mr. Ralph Henson.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Matthews had as guests Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Caspar, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Roby and Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Cullen entertained Mrs. Martha Cullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. McKean gave a cocktail party and invited as guests Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. House, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Redfield, Mr. and Mrs. Murray W. Sales, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Porter, Mrs. Bradford Merrill, Mrs. James S. Holden, Mrs. John G. Owen and Miss Helen J. Hibbs.

Mr. Frederick K. Moore gave a dinner at the hotel, later attending the concert of Richard Crooks. In his party were Mr. and Mrs. Einar L. Dane, Mrs. George W. Brandt, Mrs. Darrell V. Smith, Miss Lillian Purdy, Mrs. H. E. Steece, Mrs. Henry Herbert Oltman and Mr. Norman B. Perkins. Mr. Moore also was host recently at a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. King Towles and Mr. C. W. Blossom, of Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Blossom was here on board his yacht, "Sea Spray."

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stevenson and their daughter, Miss Peggy Stevenson, were at the Hotel Ormond for several days en route north following an extensive stay in Palm Beach.

Returning to the hotel for their annual sojourn were: Mrs. L. Pemberton Hutchinson, of Merion, Pa.; Miss Emily Stewart Smith, of Haverford, Pa.; George A. Bomann, of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Mrs. William Meirs, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Miss Margaret T. Logan, of Chestnut Hill, Pa.; Mrs. E. E. Dubbs, and her daughter Miss Jane Dubbs, Miss Blanche Stuart, of Chicago, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, of Orange, N. J.; Dr. and Mrs. William T. Frawley, of Pittsfield, Mass., and Charles L. Smith, of Detroit, Mich.

The Foreign Commerce Club of New York and the Propeller Club - Port of New York, are holding their golf tournaments over the Hotel Ormond course from March 2 to 6. John L. Sullivan is chairman of the golf committee of the Foreign Commerce Club and Harold J. Harding is chairman of the committee of the last named organization. More than 50 members are here in the groups.

The Central Florida Golf Association will hold one of its amateur-professional best ball matches over the local course on Sunday, March 10.

The Drama Club of the Graham-Eckes School will present "The Way of the World," by Cosgrove in the ballroom of the Ormond on March 8. James LeBaron Boyle II, of Boston, has been coaching the play assisted by Miss Harriet Howe. The school has chosen March 21 as the date of its annual Spring Prom which will be again held at the hotel. The affair will begin by a dinner dance, followed by a cotillion in the Georgian ballroom. School alumni and northern preparatory students here on vacation will be among the invited guests.

A group of prominent Chicago business men, operating coal mines in Illinois, will convene at the Ormond from March 10 to 16. For relaxation they will play in a golf tournament and spend long hours in the beach basking in the warm sunshine. M. Y. Wildman is in charge of arrangements for the members and in the party will be D. H. MacMaster, H. F. McDonald, J. L. Pickering, H. M. Davis, H. H. Taylor, Jr., E. L. Carr, H. E. Stuart, J. J. Riley, Hamilton Beebe, G. D. Cowin, D. W. Buchanan, G. F. Campbell, T. G. Essington, B. R. Gebhart, F. N. Browning, J. A. Miller, John Pieroni, G. B. Harrington and his daughter, Miss Mary Harrington.

The arrival of many prominent annual winter visitors has given impetus to activity at the Ormond. In this group are Mr. and Mrs. Murray W. Sales, of Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Porter, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Vernon Booth and Mrs. Bradford Merrill, of New York, and Miss Helen J. Hibbs, of Philadelphia.

The always interesting house parties at the Arthur A. Jones' welcomed her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dittrich and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller, of St. Albans, L. I. They gave a dinner for them at the Ormond recently, preceded by a cocktail party in the hotel's Cocktail Lounge. Besides the guests of honor there were Mr. and Mrs. James K. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan W. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Max Zahn, Mrs. C. L. Steinmetz, Mrs. C. D. Jones, Mrs. Ogden White, Mrs. Edith Martin, Miss Mary Brutzman, Miss Nita Johnson, Miss Ernestine Witte, the Messrs. John Whitmore, Ralph Henson and Barnard Creamer.

Among the interesting party lists of late was that of Mrs. John G. Owen, whose guests were Mr. and Mrs. John V. Redfield, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. House and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. McKean.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Matthews honored their houseguests at a recent cocktail party. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. John T. Rodgers and Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Cassidy.

Mrs. H. Harrington Mills attended the dinner dance at the Ormond escorted by Judge A. K. Nippert and Dr. O. W. Harris.

Tournament Tennis and Golf

WITH last week's Bath and Tennis club championships offering the best tennis seen for many season's, this week's Everglades club title tennis promises to present the same caliber of court performance, with outstanding resort racquet wielders already entered.

This week will be a busy one in sports with the annual Men's Championship of Palm Beach under way over the Palm Beach Golf club layout and the Seminole Amateur-Professional tourney attracting the cream of pro tourney players from all parts of the country, and the Everglades club racqueteers smashing them over the net.

Headed by the country's number one golfer, Byron Nelson, winner of the national open and with Henry Picard, P. G. A. winner also in the lists more than 40 ranking golf professionals of the nation, will converge on the famous Seminole Golf Club the afternoon of March 7 to take part in the Fourth Annual Amateur-Professional medal play tourney.

They will team with well-known socialite sportsmen in a golfing event that has made history in the three short years it has been held and with a gallery that looks like a page from the social register following the matches.

Raymond Guest of Westbury, L. I., and Palm Beach, noted polo player, teamed with Johnny Revolta, outstanding pro from Evansville, Ill., to win the event last year with a best ball tally of 65. Byron Nelson, of Reading, Pa., present national open champion, won the low individual score when he made a 35-33—68, four under club par.

The event will be an 18-hole medal play, best ball, with amateurs under handicap and professionals playing from scratch.

Ralph Gudahl, twice winner of the open championship, will tee off in the event and the rest of the top professionals who have said "Yes," to invitations include:

Walter Burkemo who is making a fine record in golfing circles again this season won the Annual Men's Championship of Palm Beach last year defeating Tommy Goodwin, well-known New York and Palm Beach golfer by the score of 2 and 1 in the 36-hole finals.

Both are entered again this season along with other top linksters which will no doubt attract a record gallery typical of the many other tourneys this winter.

J. A. Peter Strassburger, defending champion and top-seeded netter, played the best tennis of his career to win permanent possession of the Bath and Tennis championship trophy when he turned back the bid of G. Huntington Hartford, second seeded contestant in the finals of the men's singles by the score of 6-4, 6-0, 6-3.

Strassburger, who held two legs on the club trophy, out-steadied Hartford in the first set when Hartford overdrove the baseline frequently.

In the second set, Hartford attempted to come to the net and was repeatedly passed by Strassburger who made brilliant placements. The third set was a stiff baseline game with Strassburger's returns keeping Hartford to the back court.

Esmond Martin and Jesse Spalding, III, teamed together in the men's doubles finals to defeat Winston Guest and J. A. Peter Strassburger in a torrid four set match, 6-4, 6-1, 7-9, 8-6.

Mrs. Johnson Gensler and Mrs. Jesse Spalding paired in the women's doubles finals to defeat Mrs. E. G. Sperry and Mrs. J. S. McDermott in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3.

Mrs. J. S. McDermott and Lucas Abels teamed together to win the mixed doubles tennis title in the final event of the annual Bath and Tennis Club championships defeating the team of Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker Bryant in straight sets by the score of 7-5, 6-3.

Mrs. A. Parker Bryant, second seeded feminine netter, upset the seeding in the Bath and Tennis annual club championship when she defeated Mrs. Johnson Gensler, defending champion, in the finals of the women's singles in straight sets by the score of 6-4, 6-2.

Blasting out of his fifth trap of the afternoon's play on the 34th hole, Walter Burkemo, Detroit linkster, medalist and defending champion, followed it with a beautiful putt to lay Dick Chapman, New York amateur champion, a dead stymie to halve the hole and win the annual South Florida tourney for the second successive time over the Palm Beach Golf Club course.

Chapman, who won the French championship and is rated in the first ten of the country's amateur golfers, was definitely off form in the finals. He was two down at the end of the first nine of the morning round with a 36 to Burkemo's 38 and finished the morning round in the same position, although sharing a par 35 on the second nine.

Burkemo was far superior to Chapman on the green all the way through, sinking two 10-footers to win the 19th and 27th holes to go four up at the turn with a 35 to Chapman's 37. Traps and short approaches cost him the 30th and 32d but he won the 33rd when he putted out a 20-footer and halved the final hole to emerge the winner.

In the second flight finals Leon Sikes, West Palm Beach, defeated P. S. Billings, Chicago, 1 up, while in the third flight, J. A. Rose of Greenville, S. C., defeated C. B. Waterman, Boston, 2 and 1. In the consolation Hugh L. Willoughby, III, won over H. L. Murray of Willa Nova, Pa., 2 and 1.

Paul Cushman, well-known club golfer, refereed the matches and Hugh L. Willoughby, Jr., another Old Guard member, presented the prizes.

Fred Painton, defending champion and medalist in the annual Artists' and Writers' tournament, had things his own way again this year when he defeated Mo Collette by the score of 4 and 3 in the final round over the 18-hole layout of the Palm Beach Country Club.

Ham Fisher won the beaten eight division when he defeated Tom Webb by a 2 up tally.

Rube Goldberg tied the special 18-hole medal play event when he tallied a low net of 73 for the round. He made a gross score of 99 less a handicap a 26 for a 73, to share the honor with William Meade Prince who scored a 113-40-73. Wood Cowan was second with a score of 110-36-74.

Playing before a record gallery of Palm Beach socialites, on the famous courts of the Everglades Club, Don Budge, world's professional tennis champion, definitely out-classed Big Bill Tilden, tennis mighty of yesteryear, in their first singles match ever played together on this continent, to win in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3.

Budge's youth, stamina and superb backhand proved too much for Tilden, although the latter showed flashes of his old-time form in his chop strokes at the net and his fast baseline returns, breaking Budge's service in the first set and winning the eighth game of the first set with fast returns.

Budge's cross-court game was perfect and counted for many placements made for points. Tilden's inability to cover the court with his old-time alacrity and faulty back-hand returns hampered him in his game.

In the doubles encounter, Don Budge teamed with Fred Perry, British tennis ace to defeat Vincent Richards, famous doubles player and Bill Tilden by the score of 6-3, 6-2, 7-5 in a match that was marked by splendid volleys at the net and combined with much comedy on the part of the famous players.

Bunny Austin, former British Davis Cup player, who at one time or another has met all the participating players in this match, was in the chair for the doubles while Le Vann Richards, noted umpire, scored the singles match.

Prior to Don Budge's arrival which was a bit late due to a misunderstanding, Vincent Richards and Fred Perry faced one another in singles, the score being 5 to 4 when they ended it.

Edward J. Reeves, chairman of the tennis committee of the Everglades Club was responsible for arranging the exhibition match, assisted by Winston Guest, a member of the committee. James Kenny, club professional, took charge of all players' arrangements.

Mr. Hugh L. Willoughby, Jr., of Port Sewall, Fla., who has been identified with resort golf for many years and has been a member of the Old Guard Society of Palm Beach golfers since 1921, serving as vice president during the past year, was elected president of this famed organization in the annual meeting held at the club quarters.

He succeeds Mr. Stuart G. Rosson of Baltimore who has served the Old Guard most capably as president during this year.

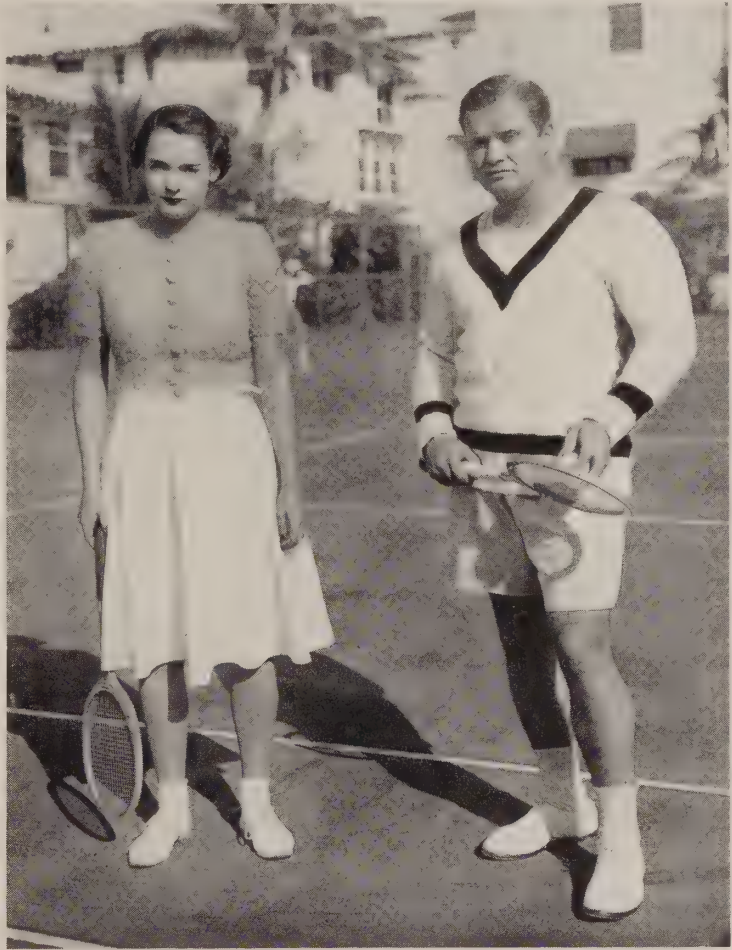

Mr. Frank B. Noyes, former president of the Associated Press, and well-known winter resident, was elected vice president of the Old Guard and Mr. William Langford, noted tourney player and golf course designer, was reelected secretary and treasurer. Mr. John Cushman, also a prominent figure in golf events, was elected team captain and Mr. Stafford Beach, a lengthy resident in the resort, was elected assistant secretary.

Four new members, whose terms will expire in 1943, were elected to the board of governors, including Mr. Frank B. Noyes, Mr. L. O. Peck, Mr. William M. Wardsworth and Mr. R. R. Vale.

Completing the board are: Mr. Edward S. Beck, Mr. Charles Francis Coe, Mr. George H. Keim, Mr. Maurice W. Sloan, whose terms expire in 1942 as well as Mr. Albert M. Banker, Mr. Charles A. Klotz, Mr. George T. McCarthy, Jr., and Mr. Ellsworth C. Warner, whose terms expire in 1941.

Appointed to standing committees were the following. Executive—Albert M. Banker, chairman; Ellsworth C. Warner, George H. Keim, Edward S. Beck. House—William Wardsworth, chairman; John W. Madden, J. E. McAuliffe, Charles M. Klotz, Mr. Peck. Membership—George T. McCarthy, Jr., chairman; Blaine Zuver, Maurice W. Sloan, Marvin Hughitt, Clinton Sibley Dow, John Cushman. Entertainment—Edwin G. Lauder, Jr., chairman; Charles Francis Coe, Reed Albee, Edward S. Beck, William T. Grant, Maurice Sloan. Golf—W. well, H. Stillson Hart. Card—Charles M. Klotz.

COLORS are still rampant on a field of hue in care-free Palm Beach, with the masculine resort colony continuing to disdain the lowly white linen in favor of splashes of all the shades of the rainbow in their wearing apparel. For every white suit in the colony there are dozens of sports ensembles ranging from picturesque plaids to sizzling stripes.

Time was when the self-conscious male turned to white for his southern resort wardrobe as naturally as the flower turns to the sun for warmth, but since the sartorial emancipation of man, the wearer of a plain white suit in Palm Beach is as conspicuous as a wrestler at an afternoon tea. No longer is white chic among the bronzed masculine socialite sportsmen who make this island their winter headquarters.

Perhaps the sun-worshipping fad of the past few years has been somewhat responsible for the unpopularity of straight white as a resort habiliment. That rococo finish on the features does seem a bit startling when accentuated against a background of white. For the temperate ladies perhaps, but for the flaming proboscis and saddle leather complexion that today's male acquires in Palm Beach, definitely not all white.

Witness Mr. William Sweatt, popular members of the younger set in Palm Beach, as he pauses obligingly for the stylist photographer on Worth Avenue. His beautiful sports coat is striped in green and russet; his suede jacket a pastel shade of green and his trousers lightweight shetland wool in an interesting shade of pistachio. The popular leather beach sandals worn so generally this winter, top off Mr. Sweatt's virile resort ensemble.

Mr. Alfred V. Leaman combines informality with swank as he strolls down Worth Avenue in deep brown sports shirt and natural color trousers. The shirt is worn open at the neck and the trousers are duo pleated. Worn with the trousers is an interesting link pattern leather belt. Mr. Leaman's footwear is the comfortable and picturesque thong type.

A definite leaning toward navy blue silk polo shirts distinguishes Mr. Robert Ogden Bacon's habiliments while in Palm Beach. With these attractive shirts he often wears blue linen trousers and blue bucko shoes. Another favorite with Mr. Bacon is the pull-over silk sweater in the same shade of blue, worn with silk gabardine trousers in pastel blue or natural shade.

One of the island's most suave, sartorial sophisticates is Mr. T. Suffern Tailer, who owns one of the most resourceful resort wardrobes in Palm Beach. When beautiful plaid sports coats are called for Mr. Tailer is seen in any of dozen combinations in colors and his stock of gabardines seem limitless to the casual inspector on Worth Avenue. Seen recently the popular sportsman socialite was wearing an unusual shade of gabardine slacks that verged on the pastel dusty rose, but with a far more virile cut than that delicate color would imply. His neckerchief was in a beautiful cerise and his shoes bucko red.

The Smith Brothers, definitely to be differentiated from the bearded twain, are among Palm Beach's best dressed masculine socialites. Mr. Earl E. T. Smith was among the first of the Palm Beachites to discard the stuffy formal wear of yesteryear for smart original colors in tux and trousers and his daytime wardrobe is a thing of beauty. Seen recently at the Everglades Club, Mr. Earl E. T. Smith was a picture of the ideal bronzed resorter in a gabardine slack suit of royal blue and a suede jacket in navy blue.

Mr. Sidney Smith was wearing trousers of pastel green and one of the smartest sports coats seen in the resort this season. It's distinctive Jib style was enhanced by graduating colors of green. Worn with this combination were bucko shoes in deep green and a dashing neckerchief of pistachio.

Tastes and Toilettes

TRENDS:—Coming right back into prominence out of the past is the new long-waisted silhouette . . . One version in the new showings for daytime wear is the “sweater” top which folds over a pleated skirt . . . it is again featured in a new jacket suit with the latest in bellows pockets.

Including in the latest Paris fashions for beach wear are the “wrap-over” skirts or aprons which leave the back of the bathing suit plain . . . Pockets continue to be emphasized . . . even in swim suits . . . Also an interesting note in the Paris openings is the dress coat which boasts a bloused hem . . . it is expected to be a great influence on the spring season and will probably appear in various ways either softly draped under sleeves, skirts and bodices . . .

Easter always brings forth the new and interesting ideas of the fashion world . . . this week we are particularly interested in Easter lingerie . . . with blouses becoming all-important, slips have a new note . . . white batiste, starched white lawn, lace blouse tops feature the new slips . . . some even have blouse treatments which are special for wear with coat frocks . . . Again there is the huge-pocket rage which you won't be surprised to see on sheer lovely night-gowns and robes . . . “Petticoat sets” have their decorative motif with lace incrustations and frills as well as beading with ribbons . . .

Fashion Glimpses:—At the Everglades Club recently Mrs. R. Jay Flick was striking in a soft blue wool suit which was trimmed in fluffy gray fox . . . with it she wore a matching hat of medium brim. Mrs. Chester Dale's costume was an interesting pink plaid suit . . . Also choosing plaid was Mrs. Edward Howland Graham whose dusty pink wool suit was an interesting combination of plaids and checks . . . her opened crowned turban was black crepe . . .

Mrs. John C. Bryden's beige coat was topped by a fox scarf while her hat was a smart multi-colored straw weave . . . Miss Shirley Bell's periwinkle blue frock was topped by a soft fox jacket while a bright yellow flower brightened her coiffure . . .

Noted at a recent golf match was Mrs. Daniel Dulany Hunter whose striped jacket sports dress was decorated with two interesting rectangular clips at the neckline . . . With Mrs. Hunter was Mrs. Thomas H. Shevlin whose white tailored jacket suit was given the new military impetus with buttons on the breasted coat . . .

On a recent Worth Avenue shopping tour Mrs. Mildred Fell topped her classical white sharkskin spectator frock with a short-sleeved ribbed cardigan sweater . . . incidentally, the fashionable combination of the sweater and simple sports dress continues in its popular season here . . .

Princess Francesca Rospigliosi wears a smart white sharkskin tennis costume, two pieced, with shorts and blouse . . . the shorts are pleated . . . Also a devotee to the shorts costume is Miss Peggy Easton . . .

Miss Florence Hartley, young dramatic soprano, who was soloist with the National Symphony Orchestra at the recent concert sponsored by the Society of the Four Arts, wore a lovely gown, created by Madame Najla Mogabgab. Of black cobweb lace, it was woven in spiral appliqued motifs with mousseline de soie in pin tucks . . . there was a flare over the skirt and two small sashes in the back . . . sleeves were caps and appliqued in the same manner as the gown itself . . .

Mrs. Arthur H. Vincent was glimpsed recently wearing a black and white checked fabric dress with a knit ribbed cardigan with brass buttons . . . she wore a beret on her head.

Mrs. Franklyn Laws Hutton's sports costume the other day was also topped by a soft cardigan . . . her white bag was monogramed . . . Mrs. Diana Guest's sports costume was all-white with a long-sleeved buttoned jacket topping the dress . . . her turban was coiled . . .

Shopping on Worth Avenue were the Misses Ann Norris and Nancy Saunders. Miss Norris' costume consisted of gay pajamas, very full in polka-dotted and diagonal design . . . they had a wide sash around the waist. Miss Saunders wore tailored white slacks topped with a gay floral printed jacket which hung loosely at the hemline . . .

Mrs. Guernsey Curran Jr.'s sports dress was topped with a short knit cardigan so popular this season . . . the buttons of the sweaters were miniature Scotties . . .

Mrs. William Robertson's beach pajamas were a gay red and white print silk . . . very full . . . and caught with a wide band of red at the slender midriff after the very smart and new “corseted” fashion . . .

Mrs. Nicholas Holmsen at the Chambord recently was noted wearing a two-pieced gown of bright green embellished with floral designs of red and white, slender midriff, and top of white crepe with short sleeves.

Noted at the Beach Club was Mrs. James P. Donahue whose royal blue marquisette gown was highlighted by a ruff of matching ostrich feathers about the neck . . . Miss Edna Brokaw chose a green and white chiffon gown with graceful flowing lines to the floor at a recent event.

Mrs. Charles Crocker's gown at the Beach Club one Saturday evening was a combination of aquamarine lame and black which were arranged in interesting diagonal designs while a bustle embellished the back . . . Mrs. “Kim” Moran's gown was a crisp black moire with unusual shoulder treatment in standup-wing fashion of startling white lace . . .

Miss Grace Amory's tomato red crepe dinner gown was jacketed with aqua crepe embellished in silver leaf motif . . . Mrs. Ray Huber wore a soft Chinese red chiffon draped with classic simplicity and topped with a silver fox bolero . . .

While entertaining at a cocktail party at her residence lately Mrs. Robert McCoskry Butt was attired in stunning hostess costume pajamas which was striking with a lame top of gold and blue stripes. Her sandals matched the blouse effect . . .

Mrs. Grover Loening's gown at the National Symphony Concert was a vivid canary yellow crepe, cut in simple lines with short sleeves . . . Miss Nona Jane Handwork wore a crisp black taffeta gown whose hemline was a huge ruff of wine colored taffeta, topped by a silver fox jacket . . . Mrs. “Laddie” Sanford was charming in a white satin gown with a molded bodice . . .

Mrs. William E. Robertson wears a smart beach dress of waffle pique . . . the full, ballerina skirt is dotted with multi-colored poker chips” and there is a short fitted jacket over which she wears a bright yellow ribbed wool cardigan . . .

Miss Betty Bowne Strange wears a smart swim suit which had a Persian print silk halter and light blue trunks . . . Mrs. M. H. McCloskey's swim suit at the Breakers Cabana Club was a many-colored print on white satin.

Whitehall

IN an extravagant and exotic setting of gold and black brocade with a great canopy covering the dance floor and draped in Oriental fashion surrounding the Jardin Royal, 'The Champagne Circus' will take the spotlight as the most lavish party of the season, on Saturday evening, March 9, at Whitehall.

A collection of varied amusing French posters of comic strip characters from the Parisian newspapers will be used as murals, featuring the porter 'Nectar' who samples the champagne before delivering it, Felicite, his wife, and their son, little Glou Glou.

Cloth-of-gold covers will be used, with each table centered by a gold champagne bucket, orange and yellow flowers and gold candles. Each ladies' place will be marked by a souvenir champagne bottle and for the two dance contests of the evening, the prizes will be cases of Champagne.

A group of Javanese dances in black and gold costumes will be presented by Tarranta and Dacita, exotic South American dancers. The Champagne Circus Bar will serve only champagne cocktails and will be decorated in black and gold brocade. An atmosphere of 'tout Francais' will prevail, with many hostesses already planning to wear their most formal evening gowns of metal brocades.

Engraved invitations from the patron and patroness committee have been mailed, the committee including, among many others, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dulany Hunter, Princess Laura Rospigliosi, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Williams, Prince Mikhail Goundoroff, Miss Anne Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Le Ray Berdeau, Mrs. John T. H. Mitchell, 3rd, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, Mrs. Paul Healy, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien, Arthur Bradley Campbell, Mrs. James Rand, Mrs. Thomas J. Dillon and Mrs. George A. Dobyne.

The Celebrities' Portrait Exhibit, luncheon and entertainment in aid of the work of the George Morgan Ward Community Chapel will be held on Easter Monday, March 25, in the Jardin Royal at Whitehall. Informal poses, garden groups and character studies by Turgeon, well-known authority in color portraiture in America, will be shown of celebrities representative of the social, artistic and financial worlds, including both his color work and black and white. A similar Celebrities' Portrait Exhibit was held last season at the British Colonial in Nassau sponsored by Lady Dundas in aid of the Dundas Civic Centre, and was the most unusual affair of the social season.

The George Morgan Ward Community Chapel, which has had the active and financial support of Mrs. Roscoe Tate Anthony and her mother, Mrs. Louis Clark, and Mrs. Stuyvesant Pierrepont, for some time, is badly in need of funds. The chapel, which is non-sectarian, is used for community meetings of mothers in the Everglades district and their families. The children are provided with clothes, medicine, milk and hot lunches and at present furniture is needed as they are using boxes for Sunday School.

The late Rev. George Morgan Ward, former president of Rollins College, was for years the beloved pastor of the Royal Poinciana Chapel here. The late Rev. W. E. Biedewolf, who succeeded him founded the chapel in memory of Dr. Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Munn and Mr. and Mrs. Gurnee Munn, Dr. Sherman A. Downs and Mrs. Drew Johnson are others who were Dr. Ward's personal friends and have the interest of his memorial chapel at heart. A patroness committee and a general committee are being formed.

Mrs. Ralph C. Young of Philadelphia, who has been a guest at Whitehall, is No. 1 player in the United States for 1939 based on winning record in the National Tournaments and will be so ranked in Shepard Barclay's annual article 'The First Ten in Contract Bridge' in the fourth coming issue of Collier's, the first woman ever to hold a No. 1 rating in the U. S. A.

Mrs. Young made the outstanding performance of any woman in the national tournament by taking the women's pair championship. The Philadelphia team was leading at the end of the first thirty-two boards by 1090 points, but came a cropper to the Aces in the three-quarter mark by 350 points.

Mrs. F. F. Proctor of New York, widow of the theatrical magnate, who passes her winters at Whitehall, gave a dinner party Tuesday evening in the Palm Court in celebration of her birthday anniversary. The party, which is her annual custom, was an elaborate affair. Scarlett O'Hara dolls that sang "Happy Birthday to You" when wound up and brocade evening bags marked each lady's place and the centre of the big square table was a "Gone With The Wind" setting, an exact reproduction of "Twelve Oaks" plantation and the cotton fields depicting the barbecue scene where Scarlett met Rhett Butler. The replica was exact in every detail even to the old mill, the slave quarters and the picninnies. The birthday cake was topped by a miniature Scarlett O'Hara in all her glory, place cards were hand-painted Scarletts and Rhett's, the corsages of red camellias and lilies-of-the-valley were typically ante-bellum, and a Southern menu was served.

Mrs. Proctor's guests were Mrs. Virginia Codron, Mrs. Rene Cullet, Mrs. William B. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pieper, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McSweeney, Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Fuller, Miss Dell Robertson, Mrs. John Robertson, Mrs. Archibald R. Gardner, Mrs. Thomas A. Briggs, Mr. Leonard Lawrence, Prince Mikhail Goundoroff, Mrs. Lela Lehman, Mr. Robert Amstead and Charles Means.

The Palm Beach Biltmore

THE PALM BEACH Biltmore has proved to be the rendezvous and headquarters for stage, screen and radio celebrities during the past week. The famed Artists and Writers, merry-men of brush and pen, are here for their annual Golf tournament, and to greet old friends and make new ones. Fred Painton, ace fiction writer and defending champion of the Artists' and Writers' golf tourney, stroked his way to victory for the third consecutive time with Maurice Collette as runner up. The awards were made in the unusual manner at the annual dinner with Rube Goldberg presiding as toastmaster in his inimitable, witty fashion. James Montgomery Flagg read one of his clever sketches on his fellow members, and Walter O'Keefe introduced three new songs. Others on the entertainment program were Shelia Barrett, clever impersonator, Ham Fisher, cartoonists, Lew Alter, pianist and composer of Manhattan Serenade, Al Trahan and Rose Perfect, comedians, and Otis Manning, magician. Mrs. Jack Goddard sang accompanied by Richard Simon, publisher. Impromptu remarks by other members attending were made by Raymond Brown, publisher, Merle Thorpe, Otto Soglow, cartoonist, Hal Phye, ace photographer, John La Gatta, illustrator, Arthur William Brown, illustrator, Fred Nehar, Tom Webb, Charles McAdam, Phil Plant, adventurer and writer, Al Parker, John Gannon, Albert Dorne, Wood Cowan, Le Roy "Sport" Ward, H. G. Webster, John Golden, producer and Billy DeBeck and many others.

Many interesting members of the Palm Beach Colony seen in the gay Cascades Lounge at cocktail hour were Prince and Princess Obolensky, guests of Mrs. Marjorie Bancroft, Judge Sir George Bettsworth Biggott of the Charlton Club, London, and Lady Piggott, the former member of the International Club Paris and also of His Majesty's Government, Miss Jessica Dragonette, Mr. and Mrs. S. Benguiat and Miss Yvonne D'Arle, Mr. Chester Morris, famed cinema actor, Hildegard, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sanderson, Sir George MacDonald, Mrs. F. E. Love, Count and Countess R. B. Willaumez, Mrs. M. K. Ellis and Miss Geraldine Kelly, prominent Philadelphians, Col. and Mrs. Frederick Houseman, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Warner, Mrs. Clarence Waterman and Miss Irene Bordoni.

Recent season arrivals at the hotel are Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dane, New York City, Mr. Clayton Whiting, Oak Park, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Whiting, Chicago, Capt. E. J. Somers, Boston, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bachrach, Washington, D. C., Mr. B. Foley, Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wilson, (Elsie Janis) Beverly Hills, Cal., Judge and Mrs. P. A. Brennan, New York City, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Moran, New York City, and Col. and Mrs. F. W. Corbusier, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Cottage Colony Society Life

ONE of the outstanding characteristics of this season's brilliant social life in Palm Beach is found in the rejuvenation of the long silent sea-side mansions of the island. Notable among the ocean front villas that are teeming with life and color this season is "Mar-a-Lago" the magnificent estate of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies. The distinguished Assistant Secretary of State and his wife have made their home the background for a continuity of brilliant social and civic functions that find the international set in attendance.

Their beautiful home has long been one of the show-places in Palm Beach, with its graceful turreted tower that can be seen from any vantage point on the island, looking down on acres of fragrant flowers and tropical plants. Their famous bougainvillea covered walls form a fitting frame for some of the colony's outstanding social gatherings.

Among the attractive parties to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies this season will be the Benefit-Bridge Tea, to be held for the Animal Rescue League on Friday afternoon, March 8th.

A distinguished list of patrons and patronesses for this outstanding social and civic function includes Mrs. George A. Neumann, chairman of the committee in charge of the party; Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen, Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, Mrs. Henry Morgan Tilford, Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, Mrs. James P. Donahue, Mrs. Edward Albee, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, Mrs. Daniel J. McCarthy, Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith, Mrs. Edwin M. Knowles, Mrs. R. H. Norton, Mrs. John S. Another interesting event to be held at "Mar-a-Lago" on Monday evening, April 1st is the St. Agnes Guild Recital, featuring Miss Doris Doe, noted contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York. Miss Doe has had a brilliant and diversified career since her appearances on various Chautauqua Circuits, and her forthcoming Palm Beach appearance is eagerly awaited by many of the colony's music lovers.

Critics in New York hailed Miss Doe as the most promising newcomer of many seasons at her recital debut there. Born in Bar Harbor, Maine, the noted contralto received early musical training as a choir singer. Appearances with the New York Philharmonic, Chicago and Minneapolis Symphony Orchestras and major Musical Festivals.

operatic debut, in Dresden after her second year of study abroad and successful concerts in Berlin, Cologne, Paris and Monte Carlo. Her debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company was made as Brangaene in "Tristan and Isolde" in 1932. Assisting the noted contralto on the piano will be Miss Helen Moore of the Rollins Conservatory of Music.

One of the island's popular members of the younger set, Mrs. Trevitt Rees of London, England, was hostess to a representative group of the social colony recently in her attractive Worth Avenue apartment.

Her guests included Prince and Princess Pignatelli, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Embiricos, Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky, Mr. and Mrs. D. Dulany Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whitmore, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Crocker, Mrs. Lorraine Dow, Mrs. Joseph Moran, Mrs. John T. H. Stein and Dr. Howard Bradshaw.

Among The Palms

WITH the season in full progress entertaining at The Breakers continues unabated. Dinner and luncheon parties are numerous and the daily tea dances and evening dances in Cocoanut Grove rival each other in popularity. There have been a number of interesting features of entertainment. Jackson Hines, well known Palm Beach singer has been giving a program each day preceding the tea hour accompanied by Miss June Harries. One Sunday evening Claire Alcee (Mrs. Andrew S. White) gave a concert with Walter Miller's orchestra in the Central Loggia, receiving much commendation from the large audience. Miss Elizabeth MacKeown, mezzo-soprano, was guest artist for another Sunday evening program and also delighted the large assemblage.

Members of the cottage and hotel give many parties during each tea dance.

Mr. Harry C. Radon was host at a recent tea dance to Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew S. White, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Gore, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold W. Chapin, Mrs. William F. Bode, Mrs. M. Bingham Plunkett and Mr. Harry Skillman.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berkinshaw entertained for Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff and her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Paul Meyer, of New York.

Guests of Mrs. Walter Nelson at tea were a group of Detroit people, including Mrs. Frank D. Eaman, wife of the new police commissioner; Mr. Fred G. Dewey, vice-president of the Michigan State Bar Association and Mrs. Dewey, Mrs. Edmond Hanavan, sister of Detroit's mayor, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Knight.

Mr. Henry McSweeney observed his eighty-fifth birthday at The Breakers, where he is spending the season, and with Mrs. McSweeney, was host at his annual dinner party. Mr. and Mrs. McSweeney received their guests in the Grand Loggia where apertifs were served and the dinner was given in the Venetian Room.

Guests at the dinner included Mrs. John Elliott, Judge John W. Kephart and Mrs. Kephart, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E.

Candler, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Howes Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Garmany, Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chester Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Alwyn Jacob, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John F. Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. William Lafayette Burton, Mrs. Thomas A. Briggs.

Mr. William F. Bode, Mrs. Virginia Conron, Mrs. Renee Caullet, Mrs. Albert Haustetter, Mrs. Max B. Kaesche, Mrs. John L. Robertson, Mrs. William B. Kaufman, Mrs. Frederick F. Proctor, Mrs. Harriet Bancroft Weiss, Mrs. Ben Hopkins, Miss Dell Robertson, Miss Ruth Thompson Wallace, Miss Amy Lyman Phillips, Miss Louise Hubert Guyol, Mr. and Mrs. William MacNeill, Mrs. M. A. Carroll.

Prince Mikhail Goundoroff, General J. Ernest Smith, Count Luigi Signorini, Mr. C. Percival Dietsch, Mr. William Louis Koehne, Mr. Charles S. G. Means, Mr. Leonard Lawrence, Mr. Jacob C. Schoonmaker, Mr. George Lind and Judge James Leary.

Arriving from Chicago were Mr. and Mrs. William A. Snyder, annual visitors at the hotel.

Joining the St. Louis colony were Mrs. Emil Harms and Mrs. W. F. Peters, who arrived Saturday for their customary visit.

Arriving to visit his mother, Mrs. James T. Roche, was Mr. Harvey Hubbell of Bridgeport, Conn. Joining the Toronto colony were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Phipps. Arriving from Montreal were Dr. and Mrs. Frank McKenty.

Many arrivals have practically filled The Vineta, distinctive resort hotel, with guests taking part in many of the social activities of the resort.

Many guests enjoy evenings of bridge in the lounge combined with games, following the dinner interval and spend each Friday morning with the knitting class, the products are sent to British, French and Finnish soldiers.

The spacious lounge was a scene of gaiety on Sunday afternoon as guests and their friends gathered for tea. Mrs. Graham Shields of Attleboro, Mass., presided at the tea table.

Several parties of guests have also motored down to the polo matches at Gulfstream held each Wednesday and Sunday afternoon as well as making frequent trips to the races at Miami and fishing in the Gulf Stream.

Arrival at the Vineta offer an international flavor with those registering recently including Mr. Werner Said Ruete, of London and New York; Mrs. Walter Russell, of Paris, France; Countess Robert de Gennes of Paris; Mr. D. C. Macpherson, of Montreal, and Mr. E. Manning from Victoria, B. C.

Others registering included Mrs. John D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. Edward C. Robbins and Mrs. Stephen Foquet, Paoli, Pa.

Presenting a scene of charm and beauty is the west patio of The Vineta where guests may dine by sunlight or starlight in a perfect Florida setting.

The visitor to sunny Florida gets his first glimpse of the tropical beauty of Florida in the lovely palms and tropical shrubbery that frame the distinctive architectural loveliness of the famous Ponce de Leon Hotel in St. Augustine.

ST. AUGUSTINE

AMERICA'S reigning amateur golfer—Marvin H. "Bud" Ward, of Spokane, Wash., 1939 national champion—is assembling his magical clubs for the 3100-mile trip to this city, with the sixth annual National Amateur-Professional Best-Ball Match Play Championship as his objective. The tournament, the final major competition of the current Florida season, will be played again on St. Augustine links, March 13 to 17.

This will mark Ward's first appearance in the event, which carries a purse of $3000 for the professional brigade, and the amateur title-holder's partner will be the seasoned campaigner, Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill. Smith has been a competitor in this classic every year since its inception in 1935. The combination of Ward and Smith looms as a formidable team, and the pair will undoubtedly be one of the pre-tournament favorites.

Ward, by virtue of his brilliant performances over the past few years, is hailed as the outstanding amateur golfer in the world today. He reached the heights last summer when he won the national amateur championship, following his masterful playing in the U. S. Open, in which he finished one stroke behind three professionals who tied for first place at 284, Byron Nelson being the eventual winner in the play-off.

Thus Ward came within two strokes of matching the feat of Bobby Jones, achieved in 1930, of winning both the U. S. open and amateur championships in the same year. That was Bobby's "grand slam" year, and until Ward's 1939 effort no other amateur has come as close to winning both the American amateur and open crowns in the identical year.

While he had been hovering near the top for a while, Ward evidenced his first real sign of greatness in the Walker Cup matches at St. Andrews, Scotland, in 1938. He was one of three Americans to win their singles matches, but Ward's manner of accomplishment startled all golf followers, for he defeated his British opponent, Frank Pennink, by 12 up and 11 to play, probably the widest margin of victory attained by any player in the sixteen-year stretch of this international event. Ward's triumph was achieved in the face of America's first defeat in the Walker Cup series.

Miami Beach

PARTYING goes on apace at the Pancoast. Lady Eaton of Toronto was entertained recently at the Pancoast Cabana Club by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lawson of London, Ont., who are in residence in their winter home in Belle Isle, Miami Beach, where Lady Eaton is their house guest . . . Mrs. Bernard Hogue and Mrs. Earle Ingraham of Providence, after a brief trip to Key West, are back in their familiar place at the Pancoast.

Nassau Brilliant This Season

FAR from black-outs, wars and rumours of wars, dreamy tropical Nassau, with its tantalizing mixture of old world charm and modern hostelry continues to present a sparkling countenance to its distinguished visitors from two continents. From the weirdly beautiful and popular Jungle Club, set amidst acres of fragrant flowers and tropical verdure, on the banks of beautiful Fire Lake in the grounds of the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel, to exclusive Emerald Beach, this island has been the center of a merry-go-round of social activity.

Miss Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, the most widely publicized New York debutante of the 1939 season, is the inspiration for most of the brilliant social functions held in Nassau this season. This vivid brunette beauty has been the trail-blazer in most of the divertissements of the younger set on the island in the past two years.

At the world famous Jungle, Miss Frazier has popularized the hilarious "Reversed Hurdle Dance," which she introduced to the smart set in Nassau last season with Mr. William Livingston. Her perfect thirty-six and the agile Mr. Livingston's slim torso earned them the laurels in many of these acrobatic and diverting dances last season. This season finds the lovely Miss Frazier again in the van, leading her friends through the Reversed Hurdle and other novel dance nights at the Jungle.

Mr. John Kelly of New York is the current escort of the popular American girl, squiring Miss Frazier to the Head-Dress Ball and many other interesting social functions at the Jungle Club and other gathering spots this season. They were members of a gay party at the Jungle recently, which included, Mrs. Frederick Watriss, Sir Frederick and Lady Jane Williams Taylor, Miss Marian Oates, Mrs. Philip Gossler, Mr. Frazier Jelke and others.

The lucky winners of the bottle of champagne that was presented to the winners of the Reversed Hurdle on this night were Miss Nancy Whitney of Park Avenue, New York and Mr. Rod Stevens, celebrated yachtsman.

Another interesting party on this night was comprised of the Marquesa de Santa Hogonia of Madrid, and her guests, Mr. and Mrs. F. Manchonak, Mrs. Muriel Von Hitzbaum, Mr. Walter Berlan and Mr. David Townson. At a nearby table were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel 3d and an interesting group of friends.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Black at the Jungle on the same night were Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox of Westfield, N. J. Mrs. Alexander Craig of South Orange, N. J., had as her guests, Miss Amy Ann Craig, Mr. Edwin Brownrigg and Mr. Jim Foster. With Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hagen, Jr., were Mr. Robert Meyer, Mrs. Betty Brown Whitman, Mr. Henry Taylor and Mr. R. G. Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Burpe of Montreal and their two daughters, Mrs. A. R. Winn and Miss Evelyn Burpe, were hosts to a small party. Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Monett entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haversfield, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Case and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wood.

The exclusive Emerald Beach Club has been the background for many brilliant social functions. One of the most interesting affairs of the season is the Gala Dinner Dance sponsored by the Bahamas Citizens War Relief Committee for the benefit of the Lord Mayor's Red Cross Fund on March 5th.

Feature of the Gala is a concert for two grand pianos, to be performed upon by two distinguished musicians, Mrs. Chester B. Humphrey and Mrs. Edward Thaw. Both of these ladies are former pupils of the famous Leschetizky of Vienna, one of the best known masters in this country.

Patrons and patronesses for this Gala Night include Sir Frederick and Lady Jane Williams Taylor, Sir Harry and Lady Oakes, Mr. and Mrs. Haliburton Fales, American Consul John W. Dye and Mrs. Dye, American Vice-Consul John H. E. McAndrews and his sister, Miss Catherine McAndrews, Mrs. Frederick N. Watriss, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Suydan Cutting, Mr. Arthur Vining Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Philip G. Gossler, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland C. Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Oelsner, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Remington, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tinker, Mrs. Adams Child Sumner, Mrs. George Bullock, Mrs. Daniel Loring, Mrs. Martin Egan, Mrs. Irving Cox, Mrs. Arthur Colville and Miss Isabel C. Kopper of New York.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel 3d, Mrs. James D. Hailman, Mr. and Mrs. Seward Prosser, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Odman, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Murchie, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick N. Bardsmore, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Killam, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Carlisle and Mrs. Sidney Small.

Colored motion pictures by Mr. Charles Frederick Brice will highlight the Gala. The Royal progress of their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth through Canada and America was the subject for the picture showing.

One of Nassau's most interesting visitors this season was Miss Greta Garbo, famed Hollywood film star, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Wenner Gren at their beautiful Hog Island home "Shangri-la." Miss Garbo and Dr. Gaylord Hauser arrived in Nassau after a visit to Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Logan of New York are the house-guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Dresser at their home, Flamingo Lodge. Recently the Bradley Dressers entertained with a cocktail party for Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Townsend, Jr., of Palm Beach and New York, who are in Nassau aboard their yacht, "Swift," and their yachting guests, Mrs. Muriel de Coppet and Mr. Robert Gardner of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Haliburton Fales of New York entertained for 75 guests at a cocktail party recently in their beautiful home on East Bay Street. Their honor guests were, Mrs. Fales' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van Rensselaer Thompson of Mendham, N. J.

TENNIS COURTS AT THE NEW COLONIAL

Some of the strikingly lovely settings that make the Ellsworth C. Warner villa on Pelican Lane and Jungle Road outstanding. Among the decorative accomplishments of Worrell's in Palm Beach. At top is the drawing-room with its light and airy colors in walls and upholstery accentuated by lustrous dark wood finishes in the appointments

The sunny pavilion beneath it is remarkable for its choice of distinctively designed outdoor furniture, with tropical shrubbery and the waters of the lake viewed through beautifully arched openings.

The two views of the Ellsworth C. Warner home on the opposite page are at top, a corner of the drawing room, showing in detail the grace and symmetry of the cove mould, the fireplace and the mirrored reflection of the charming sun room. Lovely, tiny figurines are brought out clearly in reflection on the mantelpiece.

Beneath it is a close-up view of a corner of the powder room with its artistically carved frame for the mirror and a glimpse of the novel arrangement of drapes.

Sunny Motif Keynote of Ellsworth C. Warner Villa

THE decorator has veritably captured sunshine and incorporated it into the color and decorative motif of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth C. Warner's lovely new home "Casa Rosilinda" on Pelican Lane and Jungle Road in Palm Beach.

From the spacious sun-caressed pavilion with its distinctive bleached woods in furnishings and its entrancing view of lake and tropical shrubbery, to the elegant formality of the drawing-room, the appointments and coloring have been planned to bring Florida's priceless sunshine into the home.

A distinctive introduction to the many intriguing interior settings is found in the pavilion, where arched openings disclose an interesting view of a sylvan setting comprised of tropical shrubbery and the sparkling waters of Lake Worth.

Comfortable lounge pieces of rattan with attractively fringed fabrics in sunny colors used as coverings, an unusual design in an outdoor dining table and consoles of bleached pickled mahogany, with tops of etched glass in tropical fern pattern are outstanding in the furnishings for this sunny enclosed terrace.

The chairs of this dining-set are of rattan with lace weave backs and seats of gay striped chenille fabric. A rug of natural linen with hand tuftings and fringe of coral and turquoise complements these interesting pieces.

Elegance and formality are the keynote of the exquisitely designed drawing-room. This room is among the most interesting of the many decorative creations of Worrell in Palm Beach. The walls are a very soft green and the rug of hand carved design in the same color values.

A large mirror has been inlaid in the wall to frame a fireplace of carefully selected marble and reflects in its opaque depths the sparkling crystal chandelier hanging in the center of the ceiling.

Beautifully inlaid Bombe' commodes with hand decorations flank the fireplace, and English and French pieces are tastefully blended to complement various bleached fruitwoods and dark finishes. Beige, green, yellow and flame colors are used effectively in the upholstery.

Draperies of rich green and eggshell Damask are drawn to reveal an interesting view of the lake and the grounds.

Among other interesting rooms in the Ellsworth C. Warner home is the powder-room. Walls of fuschia color are complemented by a pale pink ceiling. Lightening the color motif is a white enameled floor and a shaggy white rug.

Skilfully planned rococo borders the wall and a beautiful full length mirror. The white plaster console carries a shell motif which is also carried out in quilted covers. Looped draperies and valance of white satin and curtains of pale pink taffeta are used tellingly.

The rococo frame around a beautiful mirror that reflects the sunny colors and interesting appointments of the powder room is notable for its artistry and forms a striking contrast to the deep color of the walls.

A small tufted back love-seat has a shiny white satin cover and the new Pompeian pink carved frame.

UNDER THE STARS

THE world-famous Patio, gathering place of the bon-vivant and of prominent personages from the success stratas of life, has played host to its largest throngs in history during the season, and from all indications, will continue to do so until the last resort resident has left to attend the Republican convention in June.

Gaiety, music and delightful entertainment, to say nothing of the delectable food, have all coalesced into making The Patio a favorite spot for hosts of resorters who are noted during the bright and chatty luncheon period, the bejeweled dinner interval and the festive supper time.

A full round tropical moon made its first real appearance during the past fortnight to bathe the dance floor in its silvery radiance, with innumerable couples dancing to the entrancing strains of the Viennese waltz and pulsating rhumba tunes offered by Val Ernie and his society orchestra.

Ted Milford, the golden-voiced tenor whose sensational success at The Patio this season has been the subject of Guests of Mrs. B. J. Lapham included Mrs. Chester Robbins, Mr. Arthur Macy Holbrook and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Preston, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. H. Winfield Chapin entertained friends at luncheon.

Not since the Halcyon days of the 20's, have there been the large dinner crowds, which are nightly filling the Colony Club, and the keynote of such popularity is cuisine, music entertainment, and atmosphere. Excellent food, expertly prepared and perfectly served . . . the very danceable music of Ernie Holst and his orchestra, a continued stream of stellar artists from the entertainment world, and always the lovely Passy Room, and the beautiful palm-fringed myriad-lighted tropical garden patio.

As if this were not enough to satisfy the Palm Beach pleasure-seeker, Raymond, Colony Club proprietor, is constantly offering novelties such as the Hobby Horse Races, which are very new and hilariously amusing. At present there is also, Lois Elliman, an attractive society songstress with a truly lovely voice, and Mr. Frederick Vonn, composer and pianist, whose improvising of popular and classical numbers on the grand piano, pleasantly fills the interludes between frequent dance sessions.

This most beautiful of night clubs has again acquired the reputation of being the rendezvous of International Society, and the nightly list of patrons who frequent the Colony, read like pages from "Who's Who," the "Social Register," and "Burke's Peerage."

Among these recent visitors of prominence have been noticed; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Mrs. Marshall Hemminway, Mr. Herbert Bayard Swope, Jr., Mr. John Hay Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Woolworth Donahue, Mr. John Jacob Astor, Grand Duke Felix and the Duchess of Austria, Mrs. James P. Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. Carman Messmore, the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Embiricos, Mr. Robert Ogden Bacon, Mr. Herbert Pulitzer, and Mr. and Mrs. William Rhinelanders Stewart.

Others who have been observed occupying ring-side tables and dancing to the music of Ernie Holst and his orchestra were: Mr. G. Huntington Hartford, Miss Charlene Erbstein, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shevlin, Mr. Charles Munn, Mr. Robert Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Barney, Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Quinn, Princess Laura Rospigliosi and her charming daughters Camilla and Francesca, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Albee, Mr. and Mrs. Sam H. Harris, Captain Alastair McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Buhl, Mr. Pierre Barbey, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Holmsen.

IMPORTED BEER

Here's old Mexico's most popular brew—a pilsner-type beer, smooth and creamy, delicate of bouquet, properly aged in vats by one of the world's largest breweries. IT'S SWEEPING THE COUNTRY! The favorite of Sunny California's smart night spots and movie colonies. An overwhelming success in New York at "21," the Stork Club and El Morocco.

BODEGAS BILBAINAS, S. A.

In every civilized nation of the world, Spanish Rioja wines are regarded as true aristocrats, prized by every lover of fine beverages. The wines of Bodegas Bilbainas will still be a favorite after even the most critical comparisons.

JOSE ROMERO P. GIL

Founded 1798. A unique assortment of sherries, noted for their outstanding bouquet, aroma and brilliance. Ask for the delicate, dry "FINO BALBAINA"

• from "ROMANTIC CHILE"

FRANCISCO R. UNDURRAGA

Chile ranks among the foremost wine producing countries. Ask for Chilean white wine (Bochsbeutel), a very dry white wine of delightful flavor. Ideal as an all around luncheon and dinner wine.

Mr. Tony Weller and Sam settle an estate and have some brandy.

The appreciation of really fine things is timeless. When Dickens' Sam Weller and his Pickwick Papers companions first tickled the risibilities of appreciative booklovers, Hennessy Cognac Brandy was . . . and long had been . . . the preferred after-dinner liqueur. ## REFLECTION INITIAL CLIP PINS

Not only your personality in a jewel—but your own initials in an expression of your personality. An exclusive Trabert & Hoeffler-Mauboussin inspiration which has won instant acclaim.

The overwhelming response of those who have seen Reflection initial clip pins has impelled us to offer these exquisite jewels at prices much lower than our regular low prices . . . which cannot be duplicated elsewhere.

Reflection initial clip pins are executed in rose and green gold and platinum, set with diamonds and rubies, or sapphires or emeralds, and may be worn at any angle, thus imparting a new character to the jewel each time it is used.

Gayety At Coral Gables

IT WOULD seem that the world and his wife had headed for the Southland. Even the First Family, which due to exigencies of Government, usually has to confine themselves pretty close to the Nation's Capitol, has broken away this season for a short time and while the President is trying his luck at marlin and tarpon fishing at some unknown point in the Gulf Stream, the vastly popular Eleanor is vacationing at Golden Beach.

But, although this dynamic and vivacious person declared at her initial press conference that she was here only for rest and reading and basking in the sun, still it seems hard for this energetic lady to do nothing. So, she has bestirred herself to see all sorts of things that are apparently new to her. She has just seen a Jai-Alai game in Biscayne Park and the next day the whole hotel colony of the Miami Biltmore and the resort colony of Coral Gables was pleased to learn that Mrs. Roosevelt would be a dinner guest at the hotel that evening and would later attend the Water Ballet at the Miami Biltmore Pools, a spectacular revue that is the sensation of the season in southern Florida. Although Mrs. Roosevelt came with a large party, they had a very quiet dinner and went unobtrusively to the pools where they apparently enjoyed the picturesque swimming of the Water Ballet, spectacular diving of the Olympic stars, as well as the clowning in the vaudeville acts. Mrs. Roosevelt was a gracious visitor indeed.

Mrs. Henry L. Doherty, widow of the late utilities magnate, sent Mrs. Roosevelt a great basket of American Beauties and Mr. Milton M. Chapman, genial young managing director of the Miami Biltmore, acting as Mrs. Doherty's emissary, presented them to her. With a smile and a handshake Mrs. Roosevelt accepted the flowers and expressed to Mr. Chapman her great delight in the hospitality of the Miami Biltmore and her great pleasure in here evening there.

Many fashionables from Palm Beach have been here during the past fortnight. Mr. George MacDonald of New York, who is passing the season at his Giralda Tower apartment at the Miami Biltmore, entertained a house party last week including Mrs. Marjorie Oelrichs of New York, Miss Carolyn Trippe of New York and Bar Harbor and Mr. Joseph Earle Stevens of New York. On Saturday evening Mr. MacDonald gave a large dinner for his guests in the Giralda Room of the hotel, later taking them to the performance of the Water Ballet. On that day also he gave a luncheon in their honor taking them to the running of the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park.

Other notables of society here are Mrs. John M. Franklin of New York and Brookville, Long Island, Mrs. Roland Palmedo of New York and Manchester, Vermont, and Mrs. Pratt McLane of New York. Mrs. Palmedo, who is a very fine golfer is the wife of Roland Palmedo, one of the best amateur skiers in the country and the author of a notable book on skiing, which was published two years ago. Mr. Hastings Harcourt of New York and Riverside, Connecticut, is here for an extended visit and Mr. Robert D. L. Gardiner of New York arrived this week to stay for some time. Mr. Gardiner is the heir to the famous Gardiner's Island settled way back in the seventeenth century by his ancestor Lord Gardiner, which for many years was leased by the late Mr. Clarence Mackay and Mrs. Mackay for a shooting and fishing camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert of Washington and Atlanta have been at the Miami Biltmore several times during the season. They will arrive again this week to pass a fortnight before going on to Havana. Mr. and Mrs. Robert will do considerable entertaining at the hotel, notably a large dinner which they will give in honor of Postmaster James A. Farley, who is here on his holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Bickel of New York and Sarasota are also here on their second visit of the season. Mr. Bickel is former president of the United Press. Mrs. Bickel is noted for her famous collection of semi-precious stones, which she has lent for exhibit to many of the museums of the country. Mrs. Bickel made this collection over a period of many years, gathering many rare treasures from the Orient where she spent much time.

Many interesting social events have been planned by the Miami Biltmore for the remainder of the season. Tea dancing in the Patio on Sunday afternoons is proving exceedingly popular. For this lovely spot is indeed delightful, recalling to the traveler some picturesque corner of the old world. Moorish arches reveal bits of sky while palms make shifting shadows on the tessellated mosaic floor. Several numbers of the floor show, Spanish in mood and feeling, add to the atmosphere of old Spain, which pervades the place. The bridge luncheons Mondays and Thursdays in the hotel are proving very popular and the keeno games twice weekly never fail to draw large crowds.

Mrs. Theodore William Wessel, who is at the Miami Biltmore from South America, and Mr. George MacDonald of New York, were joint hosts at a dinner recently at the hotel in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, Jr. (Chip Robert), of Atlanta, Ga., and Washington, D. C. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Wenner-Gren, who are here on their schooner yacht, Southern Cross; Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Brown, Mrs. A. E. Rickmers, Miss L. L. Gauntler and Mr. Carroll Downs.

Many of the colony were luncheon hosts on the Pool Terrace of the Miami Biltmore preceding the program Friday at the Miami Biltmore Pool at which Miss Dorothy Lamour appeared. Mr. and Mrs. Tennence Govern of New York, were hosts to a party of 20 in honor of his brother-in-law and sister, Capt the Hon. Guy Warren Fiske of Dublin, and Mrs. Fiske, who came from Washington yesterday. Others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. George McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Dorfner, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Turnbull, Mr. and Mrs. George Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Blount, Miss Edna Mitchell and Mr. Henry Royle.

Others who gave luncheons were Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Enderby, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Vines, Mr. and Mrs. Milton M. Chapman, Mr. Lorillard Suffern Tailer and Mr. Nelson P. Davies.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Riddle of Atlantic City were hosts at a large dinner at the Miami Biltmore tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Young of Rochester, New York, gave a dinner there in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knapp of Buffalo, who have joined them at the hotel. Other dinner hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Hinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Enderby, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McKnight, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wells, Mr. and

The Society of The Four Arts

FROM its very beginning when Mrs. John Elliott and Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, now Honorary Presidents of the Society of the Four Arts, led the small group of interested people, the Society has been an important part of the cultural life of the Palm Beaches. Its officers and members have worked unceasingly toward the establishment as far as possible of a permanent home for the appreciation and enjoyment of beauty as expressed through the Arts of painting and sculpture, music, literature, and the drama. The hope for the future is to found a school of applied art, specializing in tropical design and utilizing trop-

Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, did much to bring the two organizations together. The premises of the Four Arts Society are the setting for the Annual Flower Show which recently attracted thousands of visitors to view the gorgeous array of floral exhibits.

During the first two years of its existence, the Four Arts Society maintained one large room on Royal Palm Way where all activities were conducted. Through the generosity of interested persons, the property on which the newly erected building stands was acquired. Built under direction of Mr. Alfred G. Kay, it was designed by Mr. Maurice Fatio, and adorned with murals by Mr. Albert Herter. This season marks the third winter in the new building and many worthwhile events have been sponsored on the premises outside of their own activities, among them being the exhibition by the Florida Historical Society and the Florida Federation of Arts. The Phipps family are responsible for the beauty of the grounds on the North, and the lovely permanent gardens to the South are inspirations of the Garden Club. Included among these delightful gardens are the poetic Chinese garden, designed and given by Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse; Dr. Edmund Leroy Dow's intriguing Jungle Garden; the charming Spanish court yard designed and maintained by Mrs. John Phipps; Mrs. Clifford Brokaw's Nassau borders; Mrs. Alfred G. Kay's botanical garden of rare tropical materials; Mrs. Joseph Gunster's white garden; and Mr. Hugh Dillman's eighteenth century formal garden.

ART

As the Society represents the Four Arts, of primary importance is the Art Committee which at present is under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Johnson and responsible for the many outstanding exhibitions which are hung at the gallery. With the ideal of creating and furthering an intimate understanding between the artist of today and the privileged public, there has been unlimited opportunity for collectors of contemporary work.

Marking the opening of the Society was an exhibit of priceless canvases loaned by residents of the Palm Beaches. Mr. R. H. Norton later exhibited many fine works from his Chicago collection. Also that first season, the Vose Gallery of Boston exhibited a superb collection of Old Masters, and later a group of portraits by distinguished modern painters was gathered by Knoedler's. Rugs and tapestries were collected by Michaelian and Gouled, under direction of Mr. Frank Gair Macomber, beloved Honorary Advisor. At Mr. Macomber's suggestion, the Festival of the Sea was presented last season, consisting of a comprehensive display of outstanding marines, groups of corals, shells, ship models and tropical fish.

Sculpture is under the capable direction of Mr. C. Percival Dietsch and the field of Architecture has been included in the exhibits, as well as an intimate and charming collection of miniatures, laces, and Chinoiserie. Another phase of Art is Photography, under Mr. George C. Van Dusen's direction. A first and notable exhibition was opened at the gallery March 5.

Keeping abreast with the trend of the times, the Four Arts Society has shown the ultra-modern in both European and American Art, one of the important shows of the season being the exhibition of Contemporary American Art.

ical materials with a view to giving an impetus to self-sustaining local industries.

First President of the Society of the Four Arts was Mr. Hugh Dillman, succeeded in turn by Mr. Alfred G. Kay and at the present time by Dr. Daniel J. McCarthy. The affairs of the organization are administered by its officers under the supervision of the Board of Directors of which Mr. Ernest G. Howes is chairman.

Closely affiliated with the Society is the Garden Club of Palm Beach, whose president always attends the meetings of the Executive Committee, that office now being held by Mrs. Joseph Gunster. Former Garden Club Presidents, Mrs. Joseph Cudahy and Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, working with Mrs.

MUSIC

First Chairman of the Music Committee of the Society was Madame Louise Homer, who, with Sidney Homer, gave great pleasure with their music during the first years. Their Sunday Hymn Sings were outstanding musical events.

Mrs. Grover C. Loening, now chairman of this committee, has carried on this excellent work. In addition to the many opportunities given local musicians, the committee has brought to Palm Beach music lovers, the Stradivarius Quartet, Beveridge, Webster, Warburg, the American Ballet Caravan, the Miami Symphony Orchestra, and Rosalyn Tureck. An important musical event of this season was the program by the National Symphony Orchestra conducted by Dr. Hans Kindler, at which Florence Hartley, young dramatic soprano, was guest artist. Later the Curtis String Quartet will be presented. In addition to satisfying the desire for music in the community, Mrs. Loening's aim in the future is to establish a winter festival of music in a suitable auditorium, an aim with which the Four Arts Society is in complete accord.

LITERATURE

From the beginning of the Society the Literary Committee, under Mrs. John Elliott, has sponsored lectures by many distinguished men and women, among them being outstanding poets, writers, university professors, and teachers. Inspired by their messages, several members of the Literary Committee joined with other book lovers to found the first Library of Palm Beach. Through their efforts, the Society now has a library room offering current books and magazines to its members.

DRAMA

Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, as head of the Drama Committee, in collaboration with Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, sponsored Cornelia Otis Skinner's Palm Beach program, one of the first drama offerings presented by the Society, later arranging a program by Agna Enters. Last season marked the first Cinema Series, which are currently offering foreign and cultural films to large resort audiences. Later this season the Committee will bring "The Theatre of the Fifteen" for a special performance of a new play by a professional company.

EDUCATION

As chairman of the Educational Committee, Mrs. Edward D. Stair has accomplished much in serving the community. A summer school has been maintained for four years with classes in painting, sculpture, interior decorating, journalism, drama, and music. Co-directors of the Summer School have been Mr. John L. Griffith and Dr. Francis Morton Fox and in charge of musical programs has been Mr. Albert Fordham. Over five hundred pupils have attended this school, which is maintained by private subscription, and many scholarships have been given. Mr. John Leonard, County Superintendent of Schools, is a member of the Committee in an advisory capacity. In conjunction with the Art Committee, the Educational Committee has brought exhibitions of student work from various colleges in Florida and in addition it has sponsored charming puppet shows and movies for little children.

Featuring another phase of the cultural work of the Four Arts is the Lecture Committee, of which Mr. Ernest G. Howes is Chairman. Varied subjects of world interest have been discussed by distinguished and noted speakers before Society members, among them being Dr. George E. Vincent, Capt. Irving Johnson, Dr. George E. Raiguel, Father Edmund A. Walsh, and Dr. Daniel L. Marsh.

The important work of the Planning Committee, co-ordinating a balance of program, is under direction of Mrs. George C. Van Dusen. Arranging the receptions at the Four Arts is the Hospitality Committee, which is ably directed by Princess Odescalchi. Evidence of the splendid work of the Membership Committee, headed by Mrs. Frederick D. Morrish, has increased in five years from two hundred to over nine hundred and fifty members.

Looking into the future, with more successful years to come, the Officers and Directors of the Society of the Four Arts have many plans for the growth and expansion of the organization, embracing all types of educational and cultural activity, as well as the erection of several new buildings to house valuable collections which may be acquired as its value to the community increases with the years, and in which will be included a new theatre and auditorium.

More than 50,000 South Florida visitors saw the Atlantic Clipper, world's largest aircraft, at the International Pan-American Airport at Miami, when it flew there nonstop from Bermuda following its regular trip between New York and Europe. Others are expected to come during the winter when northern harbors are ice-bound. The "living room" of the great ship is 14-feet square; full-course meals are served aloft. Its weight is 82,000 pounds but it takes the air in 30 seconds. It carries twelve and one-half tons of gasoline, has a nonstop flight range of 3,000 miles, is licensed to carry 74 passengers.

Cruising The Spanish Main

LET'S drop the daily details of living and fly to the Spanish Main. From Miami, aerial gateway between the Americas, huge observation cars of the air take you around and across the blue Caribbean, to Mexico, Jamaica, Haiti, Santo Domingo, Puerto Rico between breakfast and dinner or on through the Caribbean Isles, to South America itself in a day and a half.

Let's take one of these modern air cruises right now, by proxy and printing press.

First, banish from your mind any ideas you may have of ordinary aircraft. Your huge flying Clipper ship is wider than a Pullman and provides practically all the comforts of home. You stroll at will and around the various compartments of the 70-foot aisle.

But let's go!

Leaving the International Pan-American marine air base at Miami some bright morning, you seat yourself in the forty-passenger cabin. The takeoff is always thrilling—neither nervous nor exciting—simply interesting. Your airliner is first a giant speedboat, skittering over the water at seventy miles an hour. In forty seconds the ship has raised its nineteen tons into the air, the bay appears to fall away beneath you and your craft is no longer a boat but a comfortable flying yacht. The marvelous panorama of Miami and Miami Beach lies below in all of its glory. It reminds us that "scenery from the ground is a silhouette; scenery from the air a colorful mosaic."

You look down on the beautiful designs of the estates in Coconut Grove and along Florida's south shore. You see the patterns worked out in foliage and flowers. You see the mysterious Everglades stretching away in the haze toward the Gulf of Mexico, which lies only sixty miles away. Out of the left window you watch the deep purple of the old Atlantic sparkling in the sun.

Now we're actually riding among the rainbows!

Without effort—with no sensation of speed at all—our living room of the air has taken us up among the clouds at 3,000 feet, and is humming us along at 160 miles an hour. The lady opposite says, "Are we really moving?" Such is the unique serenity of riding in the sky.

But the rainbows! Look out of your window into these billowy mountains of soft white clouds. There's a complete circle of a rainbow in full bloom, with its dazzling, vibrating colors from the faintest yellow through the burning oranges and reds, into the cool greens and blues to the deepest purple. It's an unworldly sight, to be found on neither land nor sea.

For the first time in our lives we have left life—we are off the earth—and there's a rainbow round our shoulder!

The rest of the brief interval through the sunshine and clouds to Cuba is in the same atmosphere of delight—almost the ecstasy of the unusual and release from everyday affairs. Before long the last land of Uncle Sam fades away behind you and the water below is the deep, dark blue Gulf Stream. The morning papers, magazines, or perhaps a little nap, occupy your time for an hour or so.

Soon the hazy coast of Cuba begins to etch itself on the horizon. We're gliding down an easy inclined plane, curving gradually lower and finally the big ship settles into the surface of the water with scarcely a splash. We soon leave this port—Nuevitas, Cuba,—and are off for Haiti. Before long we see the hazy green hills of this mysterious land. As we come in to the beginning of the huge harbor, we notice below small sailing craft with bright colored sails of red and green—all sorts of shades except white. These are the native fishermen out on their daily jobs. Look at the old steamboat down on the sea, wallowing along in the waves, with a little plume of white trailing along in the blue water behind.

We are sailing into the beautiful harbor of Port au Prince and it is a gorgeous sight. We see the entire panorama, including the sparkling blue bay with the city sketched in white again the green hills, and striking picture effects in the sky. We have a grandstand seat for the whole marvelous show. We slowly circle, cut into the water, and here we are, in Port au Prince.

We look out over the city and across the picturebook harbor. We can hear the sound of voodoo drums coming down from the hills.

There is little time to tell of the mystery and charm of Haiti, of the famous old citadel, the enormous fort built on the top of a mountain by old King Cristophe, famous as Haiti's "Black Napoleon." Haiti is a beautiful country but still remains a mystery to most people.

Another two hours in the air, over the valleys and mountains, and we are in sentimental old Santo Domingo—now renamed Ciudad Trujillo in honor of the president—cradle of American civilization, where still stands the stump of the tree to which Columbus tied his immortal ships and where we gaze in wonder at the massive walls of the old Cathedral which he built and where even now we gaze on the box of bronze that holds his bones.

And a couple of hours more, over the sparkling Mona Passage, brings us to the garden spot in the Atlantic, which is Puerto Rico. In San Juan we see the tomb where lie the mortal remains of another bold Spanish explorer, the man who discovered Florida—Ponce de Leon himself. And in one of the public squares his statue stands, picturing this romantic old character still gazing out over the horizon in search of his fabled fountain of youth.

Now we're off to fly around those dreamy little enchanted islands which float between sea and sky along the sunrise edge of the Caribbean sea, down to the old British isle of Trinidad.

Let 'er go! We are off the water and up where these broad wings can stretch themselves again. There's nothing but open, blue space before us. Turn loose those 3,200 horses in the burnished barrels of power up there on our wings! Lifting, rushing ahead, we feel more powerful than the earth itself. It can no longer hold us down. We're off and away! The free and boundless sky is before us; the universe is ours!

That's the punch of flying when you feel yourself a part of the limitless might of a ship of the air weighing 19 tons.

In a few minutes—land ahead! Soft, hazy humps on the bosom of the ocean—the Virgin Islands. Small and dreamy they look, lying there in the arms of Mother Sea.

Down we slide to ruffle the blue mirror of St. Thomas harbor. Then up into our native element again; past the vast, up-standing rock known as Saba, where the natives build boats then lower them over the cliffs to the sea; past the once-violent volcano of Martinique. We glimpse the lava-crushed town of St. Pierre still clinging to its sides. We dream along by Antigua, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, the Grenadines. We gaze over toward Tobago, known as Robinson Crusoe's isle.

And finally at the end of the day, our cruiser of the air lets us down gently in the colorful harbor of Port of Spain. The towering hills of old Trinidad are before us. It's hard to believe we had dinner in New York night before last.

Quaint, smart Nassau in the British Bahamas is now linked with the United States at Miami, Florida, in two hours by 30-passenger flying Clipper ships on daily schedules. One of them is shown sailing with its 17-ton weight into historical Nassau harbor.

TROPICAL SARTORIAL SKETCHES

STRANGELY enough, even in care-free Palm Beach, there are still a few die-hards, who cling to the illusion that a gentleman should never unbend sartorially unless he is in the privacy of his bed-room. To these repressed souls, it is a cardinal sin to appear on the streets hatless, a crime against the conventions to forego wearing a tie and a sign of effeminacy to wear any color gayer than Oxford Grey.

These unhappy souls are to be seen occasionally in various smart gathering spots, curling the upper lip, uttering deprecatory noises and looking down their noses at all and sundry who come within the scope of their vision.

One of these rigid conventionalists (who is suspected of wearing a corset) was loudly declaiming on what they would have done in his day to a man wearing a striped basque sweater, a pair of pastel green doe skin trousers and Mexican Hurraches, when in walked a certain internationally known boxer, scholar, and dare-devil polo player attired in the very garments that had evoked such a scorching indictment from the aforementioned upholder of the sartorial conventions.

The contrast between the tall broad shouldered and glowingly virile sportsman and the attenuated tailor's dummy, who had just criticized his apparel was so striking that it could have served as an advertisement for colorful masculine garments. Every line of the big fellow's tailoring and every color in his ensemble breathed of the great out-doors and was a mute saga of man's conquest over age old inhibitions.

Happy indeed is the resorter who can diversify

MR. CHARLES A. MUNN

Who is definitely among the Palm Beach colony's ten best dressed men, follows one of the recent finalists at the Everglades Club's golf tournament.

his attire so strikingly that casual acquaintances must look twice to be sure of his identity. Palm Beach's most versatile masculine resorter, sartorially speaking is unquestionably the handsome and virile Mr. Charles A. Munn, who may be seen making the rounds at the Everglades Club or the Seminole golf course one day in a silk polo shirt and a pair of gabardine slacks of colorful hue, glimpsed on Worth Avenue in casual flannel trousers, beach sandals and English pull-over sweater and then turn up the next day on the Everglades golf course following an exciting golf match and wearing an ensemble meticulously perfect in every detail that would wring a cry of envy from Beau Brummel if he were still alive.

Glimpsed during a recent tournament at this interesting course the senior Munn was attired in a shetland wool cream colored sports coat of two button, single breasted design, with wide flaring lapels, and distinctive cut. His hat was of the new Panama weave, with wide brim and a band of cream and black. His shirt and trousers were of matching colors in Pastel grey shetland wool and his tie was an interesting design of minute checks in the same color motif.

Seen on the same day at the Everglades golf course Mr. Howell Van Gerbig was wearing one of the popular coconut weave hats, with a colorful band, a cashmere sweater over a white doeskin jacket, pleated gabardine trousers in natural color and black and white sport shoes.

Mr. Tommy Goodwin, famous amateur golfer and well known member of the social colony, strolled down Worth Avenue recently dressed in a sports coat in natural colored shetland, with a colored overplaid, slacks in gray flannel, hat of light-weight felt with puggree band, shirt of light blue, tie featuring white gulls on a blue ground and shoes of brown buck with a brown trim.

An interesting design of slack suit in dark green worsted was worn by Mr. Amory Carhart recently. The shirt showed the trend to jacket-like models and was very loose and comfortable, in a bedford cord weave. A light-weight green and white striped crew-neck rayon pull-over was worn under the jacket. The shoes were tan Norwegian moccasins with the socks green and white.

Mr. J. A. Peter Strassburger, whose forehand drive is one of the most powerful offensive weapons in resort tennis, favors the gabardine slacks and a heavy-ribbed shaker-knit sweater with contrasting V-neck collar on chill days.

Polo's famed Raymond

Guest was captured by the lensman recently in a shirt and slack ensemble of rust-brown gabardine, with the in-and-outer shirt worn inside the slacks and wearing a colorful scarf. Mr. "Dolly" Stark stole the sartorial spotlight at a recent cocktail party with a doubles-breasted solid-color light-weight shetland, worn over light tan gabardine slacks that carried a black pencil stripe on one inch intervals. With this was a white shirt with a Barrymore collar. Together with the ends of a foulard scarf, the shirt collar protruded over the collar of the jacket.

Mr. Albert Doderer was a picture of sportsmanlike elegance in royal blue slacks of Irish linen, Mexican hurraches in blue, and a sport coat of English tweed.

Fascinating Sidelights to Cosmopolitan Nassau

NOT the least of the charm of picturesque and cosmopolitan Nassau, with its unique melange of sparkling modern settings and dreamy old world backgrounds are the intriguing aerial jaunts that the members of the International colony have popularized. Flying trips to the Bahama's many and varied outer islands are among the most interesting of the pastimes of the resort crowd in this gathering spot for the socialites of two continents.

Lady Jane Williams Taylor, her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Watriss, her beautiful granddaughter, Miss Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, Sir Herbert Holt, the popular "Babs" Holt, Mrs. Philip Gossler, Miss Marian Oates, Mrs. Gertrude Vanderpoel, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carey, Mr. Anthony Drexel, Mr. and Mrs. John F. McCarthy, Mrs. George Murphy, Lady Ridley, Mrs. Anne Archbold, Mr. Kip Soldewell, Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, Mrs. Peter Arno, Mr. William Lansing, and a host of the smart social colony who make Nassau their winter headquarters, think nothing of following a late dinner party with an early morning flight that may wind up at San Salvatore, Abaco, Harbour Island, Governour's Harbour, primitive and mysterious Andros or any of the countless fascinating isles of the Bahamas.

A veritable magic carpet journey of enchantment unwinds itself to the aerial visitors who fly from Nassau's lovely shores in quest of adventure. Winging your way over Nassau Harbour, with its gorgeously colored translucent waters and the luxury liners at anchor off Hog Island, your modern equivalent of the magic carpet carries you out past the dreamy old world waterfront, on beyond the white sands of Montagu Beach, with its gaily striped beach umbrellas, hundreds of bronzed and happy resorters, acres of gorgeous tropical verdure and the sparkling lakes of the Montagu Gardens, with their cottages that look like toys on a painted setting from your great height, you fly out into a constantly changing panorama of unforgettable beauty.

With the picturesque facade of the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel fading into the distance your soar over John T. McCutcheon's famed "Treasure Island" with its sheer rock cliffs, poignantly beautiful "Rose Island," "Sandy Cay," the adventurer's dream of the perfect tropical isle, which has been photographed by more illustrators and artists than any island in the known world, and on into the distance, where the inexpressibly beautiful vari-colored waters of the sea are an ever changing and gorgeous mural from your seat in the plane.

Past becalmed schooners of the sponge fleet, who will take weeks to make the trip you are making in thirty or forty minutes, until you soar over Eleuthera, with its marvelous miles of farmland cleared from the formerly impenetrable jungle, you fly to Harbour Island, where in a quiet cove, you board a rough native boat and are rowed ashore.

A few hours spent in wandering through dreamy streets lined with stone houses of incredible antiquity and mayhap a dip in the surf on the other side of the island, where coral pink sands (that must be seen to be believed) are as soft as flour, and the sea as sparkling as a jewel in a coral setting, and you are away for Governour's Harbour, which is much the same from harbour to opposite sea-shore as it was when Blackbeard ruled the islands with a rod of iron.

Time means nothing in dreamy Governour's Harbour and you may decide to sample its tranquil gracious old world atmosphere for many hours or even days. You can go on to Andros, where sallies into a jungle that has few equals in the world today for its primitive and mysterious beauty, will absorb you, or you can fly to San Salvatore, where Christopher Columbus first landed on his visit to the new world. Regardless of what direction you take you will encounter sights and experiences that will transport you into a world that is centuries apart from your workaday world.

Little wonder that the international set find these aerial trips one of the most intriguing of their many care-free pastimes in paradoxical and exotic Nassau.

Back again in Nassau, the adventure surfeited socialite welcomes the divertissements of the famous Jungle Club, the Bahama Golf Club, exclusive Emerald Beach, and the color and elan of Nassau's famous race track, where gay crowds gather each week to enjoy the most novel racing plant in the world today . . . no professional jockeys, only native horses owned by members of the colony, no professional touts and an atmosphere as different from the conventionally accepted idea of the modern race track as Nassau itself is different from any other resort in the world.

Tuesday nights at the Jungle Club in the gardens of the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel continue to gain in popularity with the smart set in Nassau. The hilarious package dance, the balloon dance and all of the original and amusing dances that feature this night at the Jungle attract both the youngsters and the young in spirit, with which this island is plentifully endowed.

The prolific paw-paw tree is seen in great abundance in the Bahama's colorful isles.

Among those enjoying a recent Tuesday night at the Jungle Club were: Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Brooke, Mr. and Mrs. Lydden Pennock, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rennick, Dr. and Mrs. P. B. O'Connell, Dr. and Mrs. George A. Sihler, Mr. and Mrs. Henri J. Drucker, Mr. Leslie Hickson, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Knaster, Mr. Gene Seagle, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Malone, Mr. Jules Brulatore, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Randall, Mrs. R. M. Hollingshead, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John F. McCarthy.

Tastes and Toilettes

TRENDS: And now they are discussing Easter costumes . . . there is something invigorating about planning a spring wardrobe . . . to most women in the North, Easter indicates a change from the heavy and dark frocks to whatever Dame Fashion has decreed for a new lease on life in the spring . . . Of course winter colonists of Palm Beach need no inspiration of this nature because they have been enjoying their smartest resort costumes with an eye to coming summer popularity. Still Easter means at least one outstanding costume, especially if you are planning on going North after the holidays.

Remembering the old song about the Easter Parade, we naturally thought of Easter bonnets as ranking first in importance and a look into the newest Paris fashion dictates reveals that there is a strong crown interest in tailored felts as well as a revival of wider straw brims. Recently launched in New York were the Flemish Sailor which is also called the Halo Bonnet or Halo Hat . . . a fashion which has flourished amazingly in advance spring promotions. For town wear there is a new visor suit hat, ideal colors in the resort being a watermelon pink felt with navy veiling . . . Youthfully casual is an aquamarine felt, its crown crisscrossed with brown belting ribbons. A pillbox crown sailor of mustard yellow paillon trimmed with aqua blue velvet ribbon.

for forthcoming summer trends which we enumerate as first, The Palm Beach season in retrospect has been important for forthcoming summer trends which we enumerate as first, the emphasis on color with combinations more unusual than ever, and pink and blue prime favorites for the more mature . . . next to white—bright splashes of red either in coats or as accessories have been marked as increasing instead of decreasing. Casualness found mostly in slacks and interesting “wedgie” shoes, is another highlight of the winter in styles.

Fashion Glimpses:

Mrs. Howell Van Gerbig was noted one evening wearing a smart gown in the peasant motif. The bodice was peasant fashion of sky blue jersey with scarlet brassards to match the snug girdle. The skirt, full with unpressed pleats, was a sheer print in Persian reds and blues in a striped medallion motif.

We have seen several versions of the new sequin print gown of late. Miss Elise Curtis wears a lovely combination of the blue and black print brightened with sequins . . . the bodice is long and molded and the skirt is narrow.

Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's costume noted on Worth Avenue recently consisted of tailored linen slacks in pale pink which were trimmed with shining brass buttons.

“Rainbow Rays” is the name given to the very newest in gowns which features vari-colored rays in a bouffant skirt, sometimes separated by a black line and sometimes in tulle and marquise . . . Mrs. R. J. Wean wore a gown of this version at The Breakers the other evening. The skirt was full crepe and the colors were lovely shades of green, red, rose, and blue, shimmering with rhinestones.

Mrs. William Sills was noted at the Beach Club wearing a softly draped gown of misty chiffon whose slender midriff was embellished with sequins and rhinestones as was the neckline . . . Miss Ruth Wallace's gown at the Everglades Club at a recent dinner party was a combination of dazzling white lace and bouffant tulle. The simply molded lace bodice glittered with rhinestones.

Miss Rosalind Russell, noted motion picture actress, was noted at the Colony Club one evening wearing a smartly cut gown of white and strawberry floral print in diagonal design.

Mrs. Albert E. Worswick looked extremely smart at the Everglades Club during a lecture one afternoon in a navy and white topped with a mulberry coat. Miss Ann Mitchell's frock at a recent event was a tailored white sharkskin with short bolero with red and blue embellishment. Mrs. H. Winfield Chapin wore a peach colored shadow chiffon afternoon dress of floral print.

One of the most striking casual costumes noted recently was that of Mrs. LeRay Berdeau. Her tailored slacks of royal blue were topped with a smart tuxedo coat impeccably tailored after the fashion of a man's formal attire. The small buttons down the front were bright red.

Mrs. Joseph E. Davies wore a white resort coat trimmed with fluffy white fox over a pastel printed frock. Her hat was a cleverly designed creation of white with bird trim and veiling.

Miss Ruth Huber was noted at The Breakers Cabana Club wearing a smart beach costume of black sea satin. Her dressmaker suit of that material was topped by a fitted coat of finger tip length, also of satin. Miss Janet Ball wore an interesting plaid play suit of light and dark tan and pleated shorts and blouse.

Mrs. Edward Townsend, Jr., was glimpsed on the Everglades tennis court wearing a short full white fabric tennis dress which was topped by a boucle cardigan . . . her tennis socks were white.

Cottage Colony Society Life

ONE OF the distinctive characteristics of the 1940 season in Palm Beach has been the striking dearth of stiffly formal gatherings in either the cottage colony or the island's exclusive clubs. Neither banality nor boredom have been exemplified in the many interesting gatherings that have distinguished the island's social life this season.

A great deal of the casual informality that marks the gatherings of the international socialite has been inculcated into the life of the colony this season, due perhaps to the presence of many visitors from overseas. The formerly austere formality of the four hundred has been exchanged for the care-free gaiety of the cocktail party, with the buffet dinner in the lovely sea-side castles superseding the seven course dinner.

Both Continental and American society are strikingly represented in Palm Beach this season. Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky II, were cocktail hosts to a representative gathering of the international set recently at the Delray Bath and Tennis Club.

The list of guests included Prince and Princess Pignatelli, Mrs. Lorraine Dow, Mr. A. Atwater Kent, Jr., Mr. Huntington Hartford, III, Mr. and Mrs. Woolworth Donahue, Mrs. W. Earl Dodge, Princess Laura Rospigliosi, Princess Camilla Rospigliosi, Princess Francesca Rospigliosi, Mrs. Frederick W. Neilson, Mr. Savely Sorine, Prince Scherbatoff, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rayner, Mr. Charles Means, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Crocker, Mrs. A. B. See, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lockhart, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Boykin, Mrs. Albert Bush.

Mudge, Miss Elise Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKay.

Another interesting cocktail party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Nelson Tevander recently in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Murray, whose marriage in Boston last month was one of the highlights of the social season there. Many members of the colony attended the attractive party, which was given at the Tevander residence on Barton Avenue. Later Mr. and Mrs. Tevander took their guests to the Everglades Club to a buffet dinner served in the Gray Room, where they dined and danced under the stars to Emile Petti's music until an early hour.

Among their guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Byron Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. George Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Falvey, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Gayle Rosson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Guy A. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Echert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies are among the colony's most gracious hosts this season. The presence of the distinguished Assistant Secretary of State and his charming wife in the colony has been one of the happy surprises of the social season. Their beautiful ocean front home continues to be the setting for many gayly informal parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Davies were hosts to two hundred members of the smart set recently at "Mar-a-Lago," their lovely estate. The spacious terrace, where the party was given, was a perfect setting, with its marvelous view, immaculately groomed and spacious lawns, fragrant gardens and the sparkling waters of Lake Worth in the distance. Mrs. Victor Stamm presided over the tea table.

"Manana Point," where Mr. Grover C. Loening, America's youngest and most brilliant aviation executive, commutes by plane from Palm Beach to New York, Nassau and other ports, is another of the island's always interesting focus for the popularly informal party.

CAPTAIN Egerton Warburton's Philadelphia team copped another game in the Thirtieth Annual Society Ball Game played on Breakers Field when they defeated Capt. Woolworth Donahue's stalwart New Yorkers by the imposing score of 32 to 25 in one of the most hilarious and largely attended games in the history of the annual event.

Coming from behind when the score was 23 to 10 in favor of New York at the end of the sixth inning, the Philadelphians got their eyes on the ball and scored five runs in the seventh and eight runs in the eighth to tie the score.

They then rounded the bases in the ninth for nine more with the New Yorkers registering only two counters in their last time up to end the ball game.

Spectators filled both grandstands to capacity and overflowed on to the field, contributing $400 to the Police pension fund.

seven more. Borman, Philadelphia catcher, changed places with Large and allowed one run while the Philadelphians scored three in their turn at the bat. Jack Blair came to the mound for Philadelphia and both teams were held scoreless until the seventh frame, when the Phillies made a five-run recovery. They followed it with eight more in the eighth to tie the score, the New Yorkers registering goose-eggs through the eighth inning. The ninth inning made baseball history, with nine counters for Philadelphia and two for New York.

Home runs were scored for Philadelphia by Large and Phoebus in the seventh and Borman in the third while Shevlin made the first home run of the game in the first canto.

"Dolly Stark," famous National League umpire, did a real job as announcer after being introduced by Capt. Alastair Mackintosh of the Alibi. "Dolly" gave a running commentary for three innings, offering humorous bits on each player as stepped to the plate.

Former Mayor John Shepard, Jr., pitched the first ball to Mayor Jimmy Owens while Laurence C. Fuller of Philadelphia, one of the founding members of the first society ball game, took the batters' stance, and the game was on. For the Philadelphians, Winston Guest played one of the bang-up games of the day at second base, making spectacular catches and covering his stretch of sod like a veteran. Sydney Smith showed flashes of his former days at Yale, while Esmond Martin collared them in center field. Capt. Egerton Warburton was right in there fighting all the way, producing the best first base slide of the event. Tom Jelks failed to let many get past him on his post in left field. Large, Phoebus, Jack Blair, John Cardegna were the mainstays of the ball game with Bill Borman showing the best playing form of all, to score five runs, and snagging the final fly with a one-hand stab, that ended the game.

On the New York team, Capt. Woolworth Donahue distinguished himself by crossing home plate five times, Bob Sweeney, former British Amateur champion, showed the mettle of a baseball champ as he did a great job at right field, and tallying three base hits. Bob Brandt covered the third sack like a veteran, pocketing several hot liners. Earl Blair was the mainstay of the New Yorkers, stretching singles into triples, while Larry Doyle in left field watched the long flies like a hawk. Tommy Shevlin on the mound, baffled the boys for many innings with his famous spin-ball and tallied the only home run for his side, and Jimmy Kenny showed his prowess as a ball player equalled that as a tennis professional. Fred Alger at center covered as much territory as Azucar and Jackson Starke at third base was as busy as a train caller in Grand Central Station. Earl E. T. Smith duplicated his brother's showing covering first base.

But after the game, all admitted it was just in fun and Showing that it was all in fun, members of both the New York and Philadelphia society ball teams line up for their picture following the Thirtieth Annual game for the benefit of the Police Pension Fund, which Philadelphia won, 32 to 25. In front row are, left to right, Bill Borman, Bill Phoebus, Homer Large, Earl Blair, Capt. Woolworth Donahue of the New Yorkers, immediately in front, Capt. Egerton Warburton of the Philadelphians, Bob Brandt, Tommy Shevlin, Jack Blair, Chairman of the successful event, Edward J. Reeves, Chief Joseph Borman and Mayor James M. Owens, Jr. Second row, Gene Buzzell, Frederick M. Alger, Jr., Jackson Starke, Winston Guest, Esmond Martin, Tom Jenks, Laurence C. Fuller. Third Row, Bob Manster, Sydney Smith, James Kenny, Johnny Cardegna, Bob Sweeney, Jacob L. Webb, Earle E. T. Smith, Dolly Stark. In rear, Bill Kohler, Capt. Eddie Zimmerman, Lionel "Wert" Wertheimer, Al Trahan.

Al Trahan, that king of comedians, offered his share of fun, running to first when Mayor Owens stepped up as a pinch hitter in the fourth. The rubber ball trick evoked plenty of laughs in the sixth when Jack Blair, throwing it to Woolworth Donahue and the latter almost striking at it only to see it snap back all at once.

All the players entered into the spirit of the thing and produced one of the finest ball games ever seen on the local diamond, even though it took on the appearance of a track meet at certain periods in the game. Not a man was walked, not a man was struck out, with Lionel "Wert" Wertheimer roosting behind the plate. Capt. Eddie Zimmerman as arbiter at first and Bill Kohler judging the third base line drives.

The New Yorkers scored 15 runs in the first two innings to one for their opponents as Homer Large tossed them in easy. In the third inning, the Quakers scored six as Shevlin stopped spinning them. New York came right back to score

Edward J. Reeves, general chairman of the affair, was the recipient of congratulations from both spectators and players for arranging and presenting one of the best ball games ever staged in the resort, every detail being accounted for and the entire event going off without a single hitch.

Bob Masters was official score keeper.

Trophy winners of the Old Guard Society of Palm Beach Golfers for the present season were announced recently, giving the Cushman brothers, John and Paul, a virtual corner on the outstanding prizes offered in the annual tournament play.

John Cushman has his name engraved on the Stumer Plaque, highest honor to be given a golfer in the club, and wins the Smith medal, while Paul Cushman takes the president's cup and the Davies medal. The two ended in a tie for the Warner trophy and will have to play it off to decide the winner.

Following are the trophy winners: Stumer Plaque, John Cushman; Smith Medal, John Cushman; President's Cup, Paul Cushman; Davies' Medal, Paul Cushman; Warner Trophy, playoff between Paul and John Cushman.

Low gross, 36 holes, James H. Howard; second low gross, R. C. Maxwell; low net 36 holes, Edwin G. Lauder; second low net, 36 holes, C. Waterman.

ST. AUGUSTINE

HOTEL PONCE DE LEON gardens are usually filled with delicately colored spring flowers and such sweet scented plants as stock in March, and the gardeners are doing their best to coax some out this year.

With its fifty-third season about two-thirds over, another milestone will soon have been added to the Hotel Ponce de Leon's illustrious history, a long one in America as hotels go, but actually not long in comparison with St. Augustine's history.

This season is proving very successful from many points of view. During the early weeks when temperatures went down to freezing, the hotels found that guests were inclined to linger here where they were sure of well-heated establishments; recently they have been preferring to stay rather than venture into the severe cold of the north.

For such a leisurely town as St. Augustine, there has been a lot going on this season, with happenings of such a varied kind that everyone could find something to his taste.

The presence in town of charming Madame Louise

Homer and her husband, Mr. Sidney Homer, the composer, has given an impetus to music here this season and last. We have had several fine concerts by well-known singers, and by the group of talented young musicians who are studying with the Homers.

Last year Mrs. H. P. Hahn of St. Augustine was instrumental in organizing a Louise Homer scholarship foundation and this organization is furthering the vocal studies of two gifted young women, the Misses Lucy Marshall of Jacksonville, and Eloise Temple, of Monroe, La., both of whom have sung several times this winter. Other girls in this group of younger musicians are Miss Sara Barber, Madame Homer's niece; Miss Phyllis Chamberlain, pianist, Miss Virginia Emerson Brown and Miss Marietta Corbo, the last three from New York.

A concert still in store for us is that to be given by Miss Florence Hartley of New York, former student of Madame Homer, on behalf of the scholarship foundation. Miss Hartley sang in Palm Beach recently with the National Symphony

Dignity and charm characterize the architectural introduction to the Hotel Ponce de Leon in St. Augustine, Fla. Turreted Towers and a profusion of tropical shrubbery blend with this sunny court yard to welcome the visitor from the bleak north.

The St. Augustine Little Theatre, a new enterprise headed by Mr. T. Rogero Mickler, has given two plays this season and is now rehearsing for another one.

The St. Augustine Arts Club has just opened what is definitely its best show in many years, in the club's attractive new headquarters in the Alcazar Building. A recent addition to the art colony is Mr. Karl Larsson, who usually spends his winters painting in Mexico. Mr. Larsson has three or four pictures in the exhibit, two of them Mexican studies notable for their sense of design.

Newcomers in the winter colony include Miss Alice Stewart, who came from New York for a holiday with her aunts, the Misses Amey and Anne Macmillan at their delightful old house on St. George Street, and Mrs. Max Abramovitz, who has come to stay through March with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly D. Causey while her husband, who is a well-known architect, is away in South America.

Soon after her daughter's arrival, Mrs. Causey gave a luncheon at St. Augustine Links clubhouse for Mrs. Sidney Homer, Mrs. S. E. Farwell, Mrs. William R. Kenan, Jr., Mrs. J. K. Wise, Mrs. Francis King, Mrs. L. Fitz-James Hindry, Mrs. R. N. Dickman, Mrs. Theodore M. Livesay, Mrs. Reginald White, Mrs. Elbridge Gerry Snow, Mrs. William F. Stewart, Mrs. Robert Erskine Wright and the Misses Anne Puddington and Amey Macmillan, most of whom are members of St. Augustine's pleasant winter colony.

Mr. Frank R. Soule, of Syracuse, N. Y., who has an apartment here this winter, gave a dinner party recently at The Inn at Ponte Vedra.

Mrs. James Branch Cabell, who comes to St. Augustine each winter with her distinguished writer husband, gave a luncheon at the Links Clubhouse the other day for Mrs. Henry Barclay, Mrs. Beverly D. Causey, Mrs. Vivian Collins, Mrs. Henry B. Culver, Mrs. Pierre Persall Lahens, Mrs. Benoni Lockwood, Mrs. Theodore M. Livesay, Mrs. Francis King, Mrs. Dorothy Parker, Mrs. Reginald White and Mrs. Harold Hamilton.

Recent arrivals at the Hotel Ponce de Leon, for a visit of some length, are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gould, New York, who have with them Mrs. Rawnda Keene Hastings, daughter of Doris Keene, the actress; Mrs. Morton B. Gilbert and her son, Mr. Albert B. Gilbert, who have lived for years in Switzerland and more recently at Asheville, N. C., and Mrs. William Bayne of New York, who comes each year at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Southam of Ottawa, Canada, stayed at the hotel on their way north, after being at Pompano. With them were their two fair-haired English grandsons, Master Roddy and John Brackman, who have come to this country to escape war dangers at home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Keyworth of Gardner, Mass., have returned to the hotel after visiting their son, Mr. Edward C. Keyworth and his family at St. Petersburg. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Lancaster of Chestnut Hill, Mass., are expected back from St. Petersburg, where they are staying at the Vinoy Park, before long.

Mrs. David L. Dunlop and daughters, the Misses Margaret and Grace Dunlop of Amsterdam, N. Y., who have been at the hotel most of the season, have been joined recently by Mr. William Dunlop.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hammond of New London, Conn., stayed at the Ponce de Leon both going south and on their way north again to Beaufort and Samden, S. C.

Cool shadowy paths are a never-ending invitation to new and beautiful tropical scenes.

The lush green beauty of the date palm adds its bit to the beauties of Palm Beach's Lake Trail.

The Yellow Amaryllis

A HYBRID AMARYLLIS

HE BEAUTIFUL yellow flowering amaryllis, (Amaryllis rutilum variety citrinum) known in England over one hundred years ago, has again been reported found growing in Brazil where so many of our amaryllis have come from.

Seeds of this lovely yellow beauty have been received for propagation by Karl J. Easton of Lantana, Florida from Sir Joav Dierberger of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

In England, many years ago, Mrs. Bury an English artist, carefully recorded in color some of the known amaryllis of her day. A description of them was contained in her monograph on "Hexandrian plants" which is often referred to, today. Since that time the lovely yellow has died out and its origin was not known until about three years ago when word came to the American Amaryllis Society of its discovery again in Brazil.

Mr. Dierberger of the firm of Dierberger & Company, a grower of Amaryllis vittata for local trade in Sao Paulo, the "Palm Beach" of South America, wrote the American Amaryllis Society, that he believed he had located the lost yellow of Mrs. Bury's day. In February of 1939, Mr. Easton wrote Mr. Dierberger about the plants in question and in April of the same year was informed that seeds only could be sent and those earliest in December, when they hoped to reap a small quantity. Upon December 28, 1939, the seeds were posted to Mr. Easton, arriving here January 26, 1940. The seeds are being planted now and it is hoped they will bloom in two or three years.

While this yellow amaryllis is small compared to the hybrids we know, they will, however, be valuable to growers for hybridizing work to produce a pure yellow of large size. The rutilums are dainty little plants and well-worth growing in our South Florida gardens.

Growers producing our lovely large hybrid amaryllis have been working with a relative of citrinum, called Amaryllis rutilum variety crocatum, a saffron colored one, from which they are producing some yellow tones in the newest creations. With the finding of the yellow a short cut is possible by crossing with the pure white hybrid now most perfect.

Those who purchase amaryllis for their gardens, greenhouses and windows have been asking mostly for pure whites, deep reds, pinks and salmons of self color, all of which the growers are producing. So, why not a rare yellow of self color, too?

THE BLUE AMARYLLIS

THE BLUE AMARYLLIS

MARYLLIS PROCERA, from Brazil, the "Blue Blood" of the amaryllis family and probably the rarest flowering bulb in North America has been imported into Florida by E. J. Anderson of West Palm Beach, Florida, an ardent amaryllis grower.

Mr. Anderson is meeting with some success in the cultivation of this very beautiful amaryllis and doing so in the open as is natural with the bulb in Brazil. There has been a bloom at the Anderson place in Valencia Road and others of this very peculiar and trying plant show signs of unfolding their lovely spike too.

The great beauty is in its sky blue color with a pure white center and the green ribbon-like strap-leaves extending from out of a very long neck. The bulb itself is quite large. As it is the only blue in the amaryllis family, its color alone makes it a desirable plant for the trade. All of this, however, depends upon finding a way to successfully grow the plant and make the bulb happy in its new home. Mr. Anderson believes he has mastered that and hopes to secure seed, the offspring of which might be more adaptable to our tropical climate.

From the American Amaryllis year book of 1938 considerable is explained about the plant. Frank Vaska of Florida writes for the year book:—"They grow in soil that lies on top of rocks. The soil is very light, formed of decomposed leaves and is black, because several times the vegetation, on the mountain side where they grow, was burned. They grow in full sun amongst weeds which are about the height of the bulbs, there are no trees near and there is always plenty of wind. Perhaps the most important fact is the situation of the plant,—you will never find them on flat land, but always on slanting ground, the side of a mountain, which is the reason for the bulb being curved and not straight." He goes on to say that they stand freezing weather in winter and to 95 in the shade in the summer, and that there are long periods of drought, followed by constant rain and high humidity.

These are some of the growing conditions Mr. Anderson has worked out, so he thinks.

UNDER THE STARS

A FULL six weeks crescendo of capacity business at the famous Colony Club, is adequate proof of the popularity of the internationally known rendezvous of society. Gala dinner dances, Sunday night informal dinners, both featured by the famed Passy cuisine, the music of Ernie Holst and his orchestra, the singing of lovely Lois Elliman, unique Hobby Horse Races, and other novelty entertainment features, are all contributing factors in making this beautiful night club the converging point for both gourmets and pleasure-seekers.

Recent supper guests of Mr. Herbert Pulitzer included: Mr. and Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. Marshall Heminway, Mrs. Phillip Ammidown, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shevlin, Mr. and Mrs. Woolworth Donahue, Miss Grace Amory, Mr. and Mrs. D. Dulany Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Embiricos, Mr. Robert Ritchie, and Mr. Herbert Bayard Swope, Jr.

Others who frequent the Colony are: the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, Mr. and Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart, Mr. Robert Sweeney, Mr. and Mrs. Carman Messmore, Mr. Charles A. Munn, Mr. Gurnee Munn, Mr. G. Huntington Hartford, Miss Charlene Erbstein, Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mr. Pierre Barbey, Jr., Mr. Robert Hewitt, Mr. Paul Bancroft, Mrs. Dorothy Reese, Mrs. Ritchie Farrell, Mrs. Robert Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Webb, and Miss Joy Plummer.

the tantalizing music of Ernie Holst and his orchestra were: Miss Rosalind Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Chester LaRoche, Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Maguire, Mr. Grover Whalen, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen "Laddie" Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald H. Dempsey, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brandt, Mr. Sydney Smith, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Reeves, Miss Jane Rovensky, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ittleson, Jr., Mr. Jules S. Bache, Mr. and Mrs. Lamott duPont, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dorrance and others.

Those delightful singing stars of the world of entertainment, Jane Pickens and Adelaide Moffett, thrilled throngs of resorters who welcomed them both for return engagements at the world-famous Patio during the past week.

Their appearances at The Patio were marked by capacity crowds of the smart set who acclaimed their fine singing and scintillating personalities, which have definitely made them stars among feminine performers.

The Orange Blossom ball at The Patio last Wednesday set a new note in entertainment with a record crowd gathering to aid in the fund to establish a clinic for crippled children at Saint Mary's hospital.

Both patio and the large dining room were transformed into a tropical setting of loveliness with festoons of flowers and orange blossoms forming a veritable garden.

Luncheon at The Patio continues to be a popular pastime with members of the winter colony, many driving from other nearby resorts including Delray, Boca Raton and Hobe Sound for delectable food prepared by Albert Rollet.

Ted Milford, the golden-voiced tenor, appears daily during the luncheon hour as well as during the dinner and supper intervals and has won his way into the hearts of all who have heard him by his winning personality and marvelous singing voice.

The season's largest gatherings have thronged The Patio on recent gala nights to take part in the evening's gaiety.

Val Ernie, Palm Beach's favorite maestro, and his society orchestra have shown themselves to be not only accomplished musicians in every sense of the word, but exceedingly versatile as well in their delightful accompaniments of leading stars who have appeared on the entertainment program. Their proficiency in playing Rhumba and Conga tunes has brought much admiring comment from the many who enjoy these pulsating South American dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Loening were observed with Dr. Hans Kindler, Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Yarnall, Capt. and Mrs. John H. Gibbons, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Burton and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Nicolai.

In another interesting party were Miss Ann Durham, M's. C. Henry Buhl, Mr. Robert Hewitt, Mr. Paul Bancroft and Mrs. Lawrence W. Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Peter Ordway.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Brandt were observed with Mr. Horace Kelland, Mrs. Henry Ittleson, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. James Kenny, while at an adjacent table were Mrs. Diana Guest and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Salisbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob L. Webb, who returned from their honeymoon in Nassau, were with Mr. Remsen Williams and Miss Frances Ward and adjoining were Miss Marion Oates and Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Townsend, Jr.

Days of Florida sunshine finds the Patio Vert at the Chambord thronged with resort socialites who entertain in this charming spot during luncheon time.

Mrs. Arthur Hudson Marks was hostess at a dinner at the Chambord recently. Mr. Earle E. T. Smith entertained dinner guests there also.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hoffman were hosts at dinner for their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kountze.

The Archduke Franz Joseph of Austria and Princess Marta de Bourbon were luncheon guests at the Chambord. Mr. Chester Johnstone and Mr. R. S. Hamilton also entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. David Van Pelt gave a dinner party for ten at the Chambord one evening, as did Mrs. James Boyle. Mrs. Clinton Child entertained at dinner also.

Dr. and Mrs. Leland Eggleston Cofer had a dinner guest at the Chambord Saturday evening.

Mrs. Frederick Johnson entertained at a luncheon party at the Chambord. In another group were Mrs. J. T. Underwood, Mrs. Benjamin Stevens and Mr. C. Vanderbilt Barton.

In Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Guest's party were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Phipps and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bostwick.

Mr. and Mrs. Gurensey Curran, Jr., were hosts at a dinner, as was Mrs. Michael Hart. Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Harwell, Jr., entertained at the Chambord Friday evening.

A number of the younger set were dinner guests of Miss Beatrice Proctor at the Chambord. Among them were Miss Sybil Williams, Mr. J. A. Peter Strassburger, Mr. Hector Phelps and Mr. G. A. Phelps.

Judge and Mrs. James A. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. James Reeves and Judge Burns were in another dinner party.

PRIVACY

To live at The Towers is to live at the center of a world completely your own.

The motor entrance to The Towers is private ...and the street entrance to The Towers is private...and within the foyer your own special bank of elevators is private, too.

The Concierge Bureau of The Towers gives meticulous secretarial care to the little things that contribute so much to a well ordered life.

Truly...you are incommunicado at The Towers. It is as separate from the HOTEL Waldorf as if that famous institution were a mile away!...and yet, like an obliging genie, the WALDORF is at your instant command. That is why "The Towers" of The Waldorf-Astoria is New York's premier town residence.

YOUR NEW HOME AT

Park Lane

It awaits you with the best in urbane living
... an apartment of charm and comfort unsurpassed ... an address of traditional excellence enhanced by superb facilities for dining luxuriously and entertaining graciously.

Apartments, unfurnished or furnished, at special monthly or yearly rentals. Two to six rooms.

Good Water---

Good water should have a low iron compound content from a home-owner's point of view. Iron compounds in water cause it to stain everything it touches, therefore, an individual contemplating becoming a permanent resident of a city looks to the water supply, for he does not want his house, cement walks, white porcelain fixtures and even his shrubbery and trees stained to a dark, dirty brown. Iron also makes water unsatisfactory for kitchen and laundry use.

Your Water Company supplies you with a sterilized rainwater because it fills all the requirements of a good water that is a community's greatest single asset.

IMPORTED BEER

Here's old Mexico's most popular brew—a pilsner-type beer, smooth and creamy, delicate of bouquet, properly aged in vats by one of the world's largest breweries. IT'S SWEEPING THE COUNTRY! The favorite of Sunny California's smart night spots and movie colonies. An overwhelming success in New York at "21," the Stork Club and El Morocco.

BODEGAS BILBAINAS, S. A.

In every civilized nation of the world, Spanish Rioja wines are regarded as true aristocrats, prized by every lover of fine beverages. The wines of Bodegas Bilbainas will still be a favorite after even the most critical comparisons.

JOSE ROMERO P. GIL

Founded 1798. A unique assortment of sherries, noted for their outstanding bouquet, aroma and brilliance. Ask for the delicate, dry "FINO BALBAINA"

• from "ROMANTIC CHILE"

FRANCISCO R. UNDURRAGA

Chile ranks among the foremost wine producing countries. Ask for Chilean white wine (Bochsbeutel), a very dry white wine of delightful flavor. Ideal as an all around luncheon and dinner wine.

Mr. Tony Weller and Sam settle an estate and have some brandy.

The appreciation of really fine things is timeless. When Dickens' Sam Weller and his Pickwick Papers companions first tickled the risibilities of appreciative booklovers, Hennessy Cognac Brandy was . . . and long had been . . . the preferred after-dinner liqueur. Discriminating moderns further enjoy the quality, bouquet and "clean" taste of Three-Star Hennessy in Hennessy-and-soda and a host of delightful mixed drinks.
